THE RIOT IN CORK.

Ninety-Two Victims of Last Night's Fighting.

A Plot to Assassinate William O'Brien.

The Police in Full Possession of the Facts.

The Greatest Excitement in All Parts of the City.

The McCarthyites Threaten to Discard Their Black Thorns and Arm Themselves with Fire Arms and Wipe Out the Parnellites

Cork, Oct. 30.—As a result of last night's fierce fighting between the factions, 92 persons more or less seriously injured reported to the hospital for treatment.

The majority of the visitors departed after having their cuts and bruises bandaged or otherwise attended to.

Many, however, were found to be so seriously wounded that it was found necessary to detain them for more thorough treatment.

With the light of morning came the startling announcement that the police were in possession of information going to show that a plot had been concocted to assassinate Mr. Wm. O'Brien.

At first the story was believed to be a canard; but as soon as it became known that Mr. O'Brien had hurriedly decamped in consequence of the discovery, the excitement became intense.

At the moment of filing this dispatch the streets are filled with angry men who threaten to arm themselves with more deadly weapons than blackthorns and stones.

Strong guards of police are stationed in the vicinity of the gunshops and wherever else it is possible to obtain firearms.

The officers are doing their utmost to keep the turbulent and bellicose mobs in motion, but it is a difficult task.

The report of the murderous conspiracy has terribly enraged the McCarthyites who threaten to cast aside even the slight restraint which they have thus far put upon themselves and outdo the Parnellites in deeds of violence.

At an early hour Mr. Davitt arrived to fill the engagements of Mr. O'Brien. Meantime, the self-respecting and law-abiding citizens are becoming seriously apprehensive that the events which are disgracing the Irish cause in this city will assume dimensions so great as to make imperative the calling out of the British troops to protect the Irish people from themselves.

The candidates will be formally placed in nomination on Tuesday next and the election will occur on the following Friday.

The Parnellites deny they intend giving up the fight in the event of the defeat of John Redmond, their candidate for election for the seat in the house of commons for Cork, made vacant by Parnell's death. They will, they insist, adhere to their intention to hold a general convention.

Ordered to Cool Down.

Cork, Oct. 30.—It is stated that Canon O'Mahony, the fighting priest, has been notified by Bishop O'Callaghan not to take any personal part in the struggles between the two parties, in a muscular way.

The canon and other priests, however, are not restraied as to taking a share in the political features of the election. Bishop O'Callaghan is himself a pronounced anti-Parnellite, and resolutely determined not to extend any episcopal courtesies to the advocates of the Parnellite cause, although he has not questioned their right to share in the services of the church.

ADVICES FROM SAMOA.

Von Pilsach Has Handed in His Resignation.

He Wanted to Run the Whole Country and Being Thwarted He Refuses to Further Act.

Apia, Samoa, Oct. 30.—Baron Senft Von Pilsach, president of the municipal council and advisor of King Malietoa, has resigned. The reason he assigns is that certain white residents of Samoa have been writing letters to the king about German currency and other matters and that the king wrote direct to them in reply.

Pilsach claimed that no one should either write or speak to King Malietoa before first securing the president's permission, thereby actually assuming the position of dictator of the islands.

Before he resigned a memorial to three powers had already been prepared by the consuls of three treaty powers and will be forwarded.

The memorial petitions the three governments for the recall of Baron Pilsach on account of "inexperience and reckless behavior in office." The memorial is also signed by Robert Louis Stevenson and by nearly all residents of Apia, with the exception of some of the Germans.

The baron intimated to the consuls that he would hand over the funds which are here and at Sydney, to them, but afterward wrote saying that in looking over the treaty he could not see that he had power to do so, although he had drawn $6,000 from them in the form of duties collected by them in the arrival of the president, and two days before he resigned Baron Pilsach said he intended to hand over the archives and funds to Mr. Weber, member of a German trading firm who had been appointed president pro-tem.

The consuls, however, contended he was exceeding his powers and that while he remained in the country he could not relegate his powers to others, as the treaty does not make provisions for a case of this kind.

Another Link in the Cronin Case—Gillette Mysteriously Escapes from Prison.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 30.—Gillette, the forger who was serving a ten-year term in the Stony Mountain penitentiary, escaped last night and has not been recaptured. He is the convict to whom it is alleged Burke, the Cronin murderer, confessed while in prison in this city.

Ashland, Pa., Oct. 30.—Jacon Lawrence, an old man employed as a car inspector for the Reading Railroad company at Gordon, received injuries last Friday which caused his death the following day. Since then it has been learned that he was worth about $300,000 which he had invested in real estate in Brooklyn, N. Y. His only relative living is a sister who resides in Brooklyn. She inherits his fortune.

THEY LYNCHED HIM.

Monroe, La., Oct. 30.—A negro named Snowden was arrested in West Monroe Tuesday, charged with burning the residence of Squire Emery in Lincoln parish Sunday night while the family was asleep. The inmates had narrow escape from cremation. Yesterday the negro was taken from a train near Choudrant and hanged to a limb of a tree.

TO BUY A VERDICT.

Sensational Turn in the Wisconsin Cases.

Mr. La Follette Gives Sawyer's Scheme Away.

The Latter Wanted to Bribe the Former to Act as a Go Between and See that the Judge Was Fixed.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 30.—More light was thrown on the mystery surrounding the sudden refusal of Judge Siebecker to try the suit to recover interest from State Treasurer Harshaw by a public statement from Congressman La Follette.

Tuesday morning Mr. Sawyer caused the publication of a carefully prepared statement in regard to a certain meeting between him and Mr. La Follette a month ago, at which Mr. Sawyer claims he offered a retainer in the case to Mr. La Follette, and requested him to see Judge Siebecker to ascertain whether he was prejudiced against Harshaw.

According to Mr. Sawyer's statement La Follette refused the retainer on the ground that it would be improper for him to be interested in the suit, as Judge Siebecker is his brother-in-law.

In his communication to-day Mr. La Follette pronounces the interview between himself and Sawyer as "false and not a true statement of what transpired." He says that he met Mr. Sawyer at the Plankinton house in this city September 7, in response to an urgent letter from the Senator; that the latter immediately began to question him in regard to Judge Siebecker's feelings towards the defendant in the case, Mr. Harshaw, and that he (Mr. La Follette) assured Sawyer that the judge was a fair-minded man who would not let the fact that Harshaw had opposed his appointment bias his judgment.

Then, according to Mr. La Follette, Mr. Sawyer said: "These cases are awful important to us in the state, and we cannot afford to lose them. It costs me lots of anxiety. I don't want to have to pay"—naming $100,000 or more; Mr. La Follette is not certain.

"Now I came down here to see you alone. No one knows I am to meet you here. I don't want to hire you as an attorney in the case, Mr. La Follette, and don't want you to go into court, but here is $50. I will give you $500 more or $1,000 more (Mr. La Follette is uncertain which he said) when Siebecker decides the case right."

Mr. La Follette says he immediately told Sawyer that if he had struck him in the face he would not insult as he insulted him then; that he (Sawyer) was endeavoring to get him to talk to the judge about the case off the bench, and that he had not money enough to employ him as an attorney after what had transpired.

Mr. La Follette says he gave the whole matter careful consideration, and on the advice of personal friends called the attention of the court to the incident.

The publication of Mr. La Follette's side of the story creates a profound sensation in political circles. The whole matter will undoubtedly simmer down to a question of veracity between Senator Sawyer and Mr. La Follette.

THE BEATTY HOME BURNED.

The General's Aged Mother Had a Narrow Escape from Death.

Massillon, O., Oct. 30.—The old Beatty homestead, two miles from this city, which was occupied by General Beatty before and after the war, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The venerable mother of General Beatty, who is within a few months of 100 years old, and has been unable to walk for 15 years, was rescued by neighbors just before the flames reached her room.

BLAZE IN NASHVILLE.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct 30.—The four-story building forming the front of the theater Vendome, in which were located the offices of the Gaslight company, burned at 8 o'clock this morning. The theater was drenched by the fire department and saved. A number of roomers in the gas company's building had a narrow escape from being burned to death. The loss is over $20,000.

Spring Garden Bank Affairs to be Shaded.

Philadelphia, Oct. 30.—The council's investigating committee have received a communication from Secretary Foster declining to grant permission to put experts on the Spring Garden books.

The committee will lay the letter before the public through the newspapers. They will also take action on the letter and it is expected some very, very severe resolutions will be adopted.

The committee's request to Secretary Foster was sent Oct. 12.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 30.—The business portion of the town of Lodi was destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is estimated from $50,000 to $75,000.

DASTARDLY POLITICS.

A DESPICABLE SCHEME

In the Interest of John B. Stuart,

Republican Candidate for Sheriff of Lucas County.

Using Religion in Politics for Partisan Purposes.

The Plot is Exposed to the People of the County—Rebuke the Outrage by Voting for Harry Dowling.

The people of Toledo are aware of the existence of an un-American society in this city, organized, and maintained to proscribe Catholics. The oath which the members have taken includes politics and business in the proscription pledges.

This society is waging a Know Nothing war at present against one of the democratic candidates for office in Lucas county, because he is a member of the Catholic Church. The candidate is Harry Dowling, son of Capt. P. H. Dowling. His opponent is John B. Stuart, who is a member of this "American Protective Association," which is pursuing a midnight, dark lantern crusade against a large and eminently respectable element of our citizenship.

The Bee does not now charge the republican campaign committee with direct connection with this outrageous politics, but it does positively say that the whole scheme of these Know Nothings is understood by certain republican leaders, and that John B. Stuart is working it with all the cunning of which he is possessed.

The readers of the Blade will recall several political paragraphs, in that paper recently, hinting that at the last moment the democratic committee would issue a circular in the interest of Harry Dowling. This was news to the democratic committee, but it was the political method of the proscriptionists to prepare the way for the circulation of a document themselves so worded as to convey the impression that it was issued by Dowling and his friends. The Blade was used as the instrument in this dastardly plot against Mr. Dowling.

The circular is published, and thousands of them are distributed, and the plan is to have such republican newspapers as will aid in the outrage by charging its publication upon Harry Dowling and the Democratic committee.

Let no honest citizen be deceived by this damnable trick of the proscriptionists. One of the persons engaged in the circulation of the documents is the notorious Dr. Hensler, who is a member of the secret society. He is the same fellow who issued the anonymous circular in the republican convention against Dr. Beckwith.

The circular in question which this un-American society has issued reads as follows:

"On the 10th day of January, 1890, the Holy Father embodied the following in His encyclical of that date; it is plain, positive and precise, and we exhort all Catholics to devote careful attention to its teachings, and rigidly adhere to its precepts.

"Furthermore, in politics, which are inseparably bound up with the laws of morality and religious duties, men ought always in the first place to serve, as far as possible, the interests of Catholicism. As soon as they are seen to be in danger, all differences should cease between Catholics. Since the fate of states depends principally on the disposition of those who are at the head of the government, the church cannot grant its patronage or favor to men whom it knows to be hostile to it, who openly refuse to respect its rights, who seek to break the alliance established by the nature of things between religious interests and the interests of the civil order. On the contrary, its duty is to favor those, who, having sound ideas as to the relations between church and state, wish to make them both harmonize for the common good. These principles contain the rule according to which every Catholic ought to model his public life."—Encyclical, Pope Leo XIII., January 10, 1890.

HARRY DOWLING,
Candidate for Sheriff on Lucas County Democratic Ticket, is a member of the Roman Catholic Church in Toledo, Ohio."

The object of this circular is to inflame the Protestants of Toledo, and induce a large number of them to vote against Harry Dowling. Now that the plan of the proscriptionists is exposed let reason prevail and good sense govern the multitude.

The mixing of religion and politics is the most unfortunate thing that could occur in any community. We are all citizens of a common country, and when the passions of a political campaign are over we must live together, in business and social relations. We are loyal to our town, to our state, to our country; and there is only one flag for all of us—the flag of feedom—feedom of thought freedom of person, freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of religion. The man who stirs the fires of proscription is not a good American citizen and his counsels should be spurned.

In order to show how strongly Mr. Dowling condemns this circular we print herewith a card which vigorously tells its own story:

TO THE PUBLIC.

It has come to my knowledge that a circular has been issued to the voters of Lucas county, quoting from an encyclical of Pope Leo, and closing with the information that I am the democratic candidate for sheriff. The impression evidently sought to be conveyed is that either myself or my friends caused the circulation of this document. Now in as strong language as I can frame I emphatically deny having anything whatever to do with this publication and to make this denial stronger I hereby agree to forfeit one thousand dollars to the charitable institutions of Toledo if any person or persons can directly or indirectly implicate me or any one interested in my behalf, in any way, with the inception, preparation or promulgation of the circular here referred to.

HARRY S. DOWLING.

NO CATHOLIC NEED APPLY

The Inner Workings of the A. P. A. Exposed.

Denounced in a Public Meeting at Council Bluffs.

What Western People Have to Say About the Organization, a Branch of Which Flourishes in Toledo.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Oct. 30.—There were sensational and exciting scenes at the Broadway theater in this city, which were brought about by a meeting held under the direction of the leading Catholic church of this city for the purpose of exposing the principles and making public the names of the members of the American Protective association, the members of which organization are generally known here as "White Caps."

During the last week the Rev Chiniquy, who claims to have formerly been a Catholic priest, but which religion he renounced about thirty-three years ago, gave a series of lectures against Catholicism and vigorously denounced the church and its doctrines.

He was greeted with crowded houses nightly. These lectures were given under the auspices of the alleged "White Cap" organization, and it is said that one night while the secretary, Wm. Kinzel, was in attendance at one of these meetings his house was entered and a copy of the list of members and oath of membership and declaration of principles stolen.

Whether the story of the alleged burglary is true or not the list of members and other papers were obtained and made public in an open meeting held in the opera house.

When is was announced that this would be done there was considerable of a sensation caused and as a consequence the Broadway theater was crowded to its capacity.

Those who are members of the "White Cap" organization evidently came prepared to raise a disturbance, and when the reading secretary attempted to read the oath of membership and the declaration of principles it was discovered that they were present in great force, and attempted to drown the voice of the speaker and quiet would no sooner be restored than the hissing would begin again, but those having the meeting in charge finally succeeded in making public all they intended.

When the list of names was read, over 200 in all, it caused quite a sensation. Among the members were found several leading business men of this city, of whom the following is a partial list: Henry Vanbrunt and Peter Smith, members of the city council; John L. Templeton, city marshal, and two of his deputies; W. C. Stacey, member of the board of education, and others who it was not thought would belong to such an order.

The meeting was concluded without trouble, but many threats were made. The declaration of principles and oath of membership is as follows:

Declaration of Membership: I hereby declare that I am a firm believer in a deity. I am not a member of the Roman Catholic church, nor have I any sympathy with Roman Catholicism. In my opinion no Roman Catholic should be allowed any part or parcel in the control or occupy any position in our public schools; on the contrary, I realize that the institutions of our country are in danger from the machinations of the church of Rome. I believe that only by the removal of Roman Catholics from offices of public trust can justice, right, and true American sentiment be fully observed, and that by the concerted and continued efforts of the lovers of American liberty only can such results be consummated and continued.

I pledge myself to defend the government of the United States and of the state in which I reside, against invasion, disorder, treason, rebellion, either by ecclesiastical, local, or foreign foe, and against the usurpation of temporal or spiritual power, whereby men become slaves to party and the Roman church.

I am willing to bind myself by a vow sacred and inviolable. I am a Protestant and have been for years.

Here Is the Oath.

I hereby denounce Roman Catholicism. I hereby denounce the pope now sitting in Rome or elsewhere. I denounce all his priests and emissaries all over the world, and the diabolical intrigues of the Roman Catholic church. I will not knowingly vote for, recommend for, nor appoint, nor assist in electing or appointing, a Roman Catholic, nor any person sympathizing with Roman Catholicism, to any political position whatever, and in all my public and political actions will be governed by the principles of this order.

Several members will come out in a card to the public renouncing their allegiance to the order. The meeting has been the sensation of the week, and is the only topic found for discussion by the many who are found on the streets.

IF HARRISON WANTS WAR

He Can Pick Up a Fight with Mexico.

Men Who Had Sworn Allegience to the Stars and Stripes Shot Down Like Dogs.

Rio Grande City, Tex., Oct. 30.—General evidence continues to accumulate that the Mexicans executed by Gen. Garcia were not guilty of the offenses for which they died, and that some of them were entitled to the protection of the stars and stripes by reason of having formally declared their intention of becoming American citizens. Reports are received of other like executions, which are studiously concealed by the Mexican military.

CHINA SETTLED.

Missionaries Reimbursed for Lost Property.

Money Handed to the Ladies to Redress the Wrongs

Was Returned to the Officials at Once,

And Ordered to be Distributed to the Poor.

The Action of the Ladies Has Turned the Tide of Public Sentiment in Their Favor and Will Result in Much Good.

Shanghai, China, Oct. 30.—The Chinese government has satisfied the claims of the missionaries and foreign residents whose property was destroyed by the mobs at Wuhu, Wusieh and various other river ports in the Yangtze valley during the past summer.

The amounts to be paid for each loss was left to the committees appointed by the foreigners concerned and the officials appointed by the Chinese viceroy.

So anxious seemed the Chinese to satisfy all demands, that not a word of disagreement was heard from their part of the committee, and the amounts at which the missionaries assessed their destroyed belongings was accepted and paid without comment.

Each mision house, church, hospital and personal household effects were amply and sufficiently indemnified, and the missionaries are perfectly satisfied with the result. New buildings are being put up in place of the ruined ones, and by the latter part of next year it is hoped that the missions will be on as firm a footing as before the riots.

The missionary ladies, who suffered so much by the severe treatment of the Wuhu mob, being driven from their burning homes from house to house, and finally forced to hide themselves in a mud hovel on the river bank, until opportunity offered for them to make their way down to the protection of the foreign boats at Kinkiang, were paid 5,000 taels for the indignities heaped upon them.

But no sooner was the money given them than they, through the British consul, returned the whole amount to the Chinese viceroy requesting that it be distributed among the poor of the city, and that the ringleaders of the mob, which so severely treated them, be not branded with hot irons, as is the Chinese custom; stating that if these mars were put upon the men they would be forever branded as criminals and all possibility of reform be forbidden them.

The viceroy stated that he would willingly grant the wishes of the ladies, and in addition had placards posted all over the city informing the populace of the generous action of the ladies and holding them up as models of Christian virtue for the people to follow.

It is thought by many that this action of the viceroy's will have great weight in his province and will cause the people now hostile to the missionaries, to more favorably consider them; and thus be the means of, perhaps, adding much to the good which the new missions are endeavoring to perform.

In the negotiations regarding the settlement of the claims of the Roman Catholic mission from the church destroyed by the mob in June last, the priests asked for a tract of land upon which is situated an ancient Chinese temple erected in honor of the famous Tseng Kwofan.

The Chinese authorities after some delay granted the request, but when the people of the city heard that this time-honored relic of past generations was about to pass into the possession of the "barbarians" they protested strongly.

The authorities paid no attention to these protests and were about to close the bargain with the Catholic priests, when the people sent a committee to take possession of it and to begin rebuilding the temple.

The mandarin then sent a number of soldiers who drove the workmen away, but not without considerable difficulty. The land was then turned over to the priests.

The populace are very much incensed over the idea of the temple being sold to the priests, and it is confidently presumed that any buildings which may be erected in its place will be eventually destroyed by the people.

It is just this adverse action frequently resorted to by missionaries which generates the enmity of the Chinese and causes the wanton destruction by mobs which we have recently passed through.

The Chinese are slow to anger, but when once incensed the memory of injuries remain smoldering in their bosoms until a favorable time offers for vengeance; then the smoldering embers are kindled, the mob gathers and the missionary property is destroyed without a visible reason for the action. But were we to trace back far enough we should find the cause, real or fancied, which has been awaiting an opportunity of being avenged.

Much of the trouble now being experienced by our missionaries could be well avoided by calm and judicious action on their part, and much of it could have been prevented by proper regard for the conservatism of the Chinese as a people and not antagonizing this national trait by many similar acts to that mentioned above.

The Chinese are not naturally opposed to the introduction of the Christian religion, and it is only when their race instincts are overridden that outrages are committed.

For some time the trouble from mobs has been anticipated in the capial city of Soochow.

Placards calling upon the people to rise, drive out the foreigners and destroy their property have been for some days posted throughout the city. Nothing was done about these incendiary posters, the authorities either taking no interest in the matter or else secretly conniving at the intentions of the incendiaries.

But recently, since the determined action taken by the foreign ministers at Pekin in informing the central Chinese government that unless it made ample provision for the protection of all foreigners, as guaranteed by the treaties entered into by China, the powers would land sufficient armed forces to insure the safety of their own countrymen in any Chinese port and take matters into their own hands, they have taken on quite a new appearance.

Orders have been sent by the Chinese council at Pekin to the mandarins in all the provinces to take every precaution for the protection of foreign citizens, and all is active in military circles in the cities in which foreigners reside.

Soochow has been particularly anxious to carry out the mandates of the Pekin council, and now the tramp of the Chinese soldiery is hourly heard, and the missionaries and foreign residents are feeling a degree of safety not experienced during the past three months.

Proclamations of the most stringent kind have been issued by the authorities informing the populace that any one suspected of belonging to a secret society or found with a weapon (firearm) in his possession will be decapitated, and that any unusual gathering of the people will be summarily dealt with by the soldiers.

The utmost vigilance is shown at the gates of the walls of the city, and any one not residing within the walls is carefully examined before being allowed to enter.

At sunset the gates are closed and no is permitted to come in or go out until the following sunrise.

These precautions are thought to be ample and sufficient by all the foreigners residing within the walls, and no trouble is apprehended so long as the present system of vigilance is carried out, despite the murderous and incendiary placards posted over the city.

Soochow is one of the principal centers of the foreign missions in China, and a destruction of the mission property there would be a severe blow to Christianity in China.

It contains many churches of each of the Protestant sects, several hospitals and schools for the people at large, and two higher academies for the education of native pupils who intend to become ministers of the gospel.

The foothold gained by the mission in Soochow, as much through the general benefits experienced through the hospitals as by the teachings of the missionaries, is probably greater than in any other city in China. Each year the number of converts and of native Chinese preachers increases over that of the preceding one; and so long as matters hold the even tenor of their way we may see the missions of Soochow take and hold the palm of the best fruits of the Christian laborers in China.

Recently a party of 25 Chinese girls, five boys and several attendants from the prefecture of Tain Fu, were on their way to the American Methodist mission at Pekin, and upon arrival at the city of Pingyuan, the native mandarin stopped the party and forbade them to proceed further.

After an examination he decided to let the boys go on to the mission school at Pekin, but sent the girls back to Tain Fu, claiming that in the treaties there was no provision for the education of Chinese girls by the foreign missionaries, and that all girls' schools were "illegal."

The Chinese pastor in charge of the party protested against the high-handed action of the mandarin, and stated that it had been the custom to allow these pupils to annually visit their homes, and that they were now only returning from this periodic visit.

Instead of favorably considering this protest the mandarin threatened to punish the pastor, and angrily ordered that the boys whom he had allowed to go should be retaken and brought back, which was accordingly done.

There is no redress to be obtained through Chinese official channels against the action of the mandarin, and the injury thus inflicted upon the mission school in the loss of its pupils, as well as the heavy expense incurred in the travelling thus imposed upon its pupils by the mandarin will be severely felt.

The occasion of the sending back of the boys and girls was made use of to start various reports against the missionaries, such as charging them with the kidnapping of the entire number, saying that the missionaries intended to sell them in foreign countries, etc.

These reports are readily believed by the common people, and when emanating, as they do in this case, from the magistrates, yamen, they have great effect in causing a hostility against the missionaries, and are the source of much trouble.

COMING HOME TO ROOST

Egan Chickens Show Up in the State Department.

Chili Has Been Mistreated and Has Her Back Up.

The Junta Snubs Uncle Sam with the Result that the Gay Minister May Soon be Ordered to Come Home.

New York, Oct. 30.—All the morning papers comment liberally upon the crisis reached in the controversy between Chili and the United States.

While almost unanimous in the opinion that the government will not, and should not, sumbit to an insult, heaped upon an injury, several of them allege that the policy of sending and keeping as minister to that country an utterly unfit man, with improper instructions, is bearing its natural fruit.

Chili's Snub.

Washington, Oct. 30.—There was little or no excitement in official circles here over the Santiago press cablegram announcing the receipt by Minister Egan of an unsatisfactory response from the junta to the representatives of the United States and saying the Baltimore's crew were practically boycotted at Valparaiso.

Naval officials discredit the latter statement, and believe that its foundation lies in the prudent course adopted by Commodore Schley respecting the granting of liberty to its sailors during the present condition of excitement.

At the department of state a cipher cablegram from Minister Egan was received.

It was nearly noon before the cablegram was translated and laid before the president. An hour afterwards messengers were dispatched to Secretary Blaine and Secretary Tracy requesting their presence at the White House. The secretries promptly responded to the president's summons, Secretary Blaine coming over from his house and Secretary Tracy from the navy department.

Soon after 6 o'clock an official statement of the contents of Minister Egan's dispatch was made public. It reads as follows:

"The department of state received this morning a telegram from Minister Egan dated Santiago, October 28, in which he gives the following as the reply of the Chilian government to the president's telegram of October 23, asking reparation for the recent murder of American sailors in the streets of Valparaiso: 'Minister of foreign affairs replies that the government of the United States formulates, demands and advances threats that without being cast back with acrimony, are not acceptable, nor could they be accepted in the present case or in any other of like nature. He does not doubt the sincerity, rectitude or expertness of investigation on board the Baltimore, but will recognize only the jurisdiction and authority of his own country to judge and punish the guilty in Chilian territory.

"'He says the administrative and judicial authorities have been investigating the affair; that judicial investigation under Chilian law is secret and the time is not yet arrived to make known the result; when that time does arrive he will communicate the results, although he does not recognize any other authority competent to judge criminal cases than that established by the Chilian people.

"'Until the time arrives to disclose the result of investigation he cannot admit that the disorders in Valparaiso or the silence of his department should appear as an expression of unfriendliness towards the government of the United States which might put in peril the friendly relations between the two countries.'"

Up to the hour when the above statement was made public no reply had been made to it. What will be the nature of Secretary Blaine's reply is altogether a matter of conjecture. The most plausible theory advanced is that the suggestions courteously and diplomatically conveyed in Acting Secretary Wharton's dispatch that this government had no doubt investigation would be made and reparation afforded, will now be renewed in the shape of a stern and formal demand for some immediate assurance of proper action on the part of the junta and if these are not forthcoming Minister Egan will take passage on the Baltimore for the United States, thus severing diplomatic relations between the United States and Chili.

GRATIFYING TO ALL.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup company.

WITH THE MASSES

The Democratic Party Finds Its Popularity.

Good Results Will Follow the Recent Journey

Of the Educational Junket Through the West.

Work of the Club Organizing Committee.

Secretary Gardner Tells the Bee Readers of the Trip Through the Great Northwest and Along the Pacific Slope.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Mr. Lawrence Gardner, the secretary of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, who has just returned to Washington after an extended trip, in company with Chauncey F. Black, Senator Faulkner, Congressman Bynum of Indiana and others, throughout the northwest and along the Pacific coast, gives your correspondent a very interesting account of the campaign of education in which he was engaged and which will no doubt prove interesting reading for democrats generally.

"We left Washington September 14, going direct to St. Paul and Minneapolis, where we spent two days in consultation with the leaders in that state. Club organizations there began in 1888. From there we went to Fargo, N. D., where we met the officers of nearly all the clubs in the state and arranged for the formation of a state association of democratic clubs. A large meeting was held in the armory in that city, followed by a banquet. We then proceeded to Butte, arriving there late on a Saturday evening. In that country they speak of Butte as a mining camp, but I must say the audience we met at Butte was a very intelligent one.

From Butte we proceeded to Helena, where we formed the State association of Democratic Clubs of Montana. Every county in the state was represented by from five to fifteen delegates, among them being representatives from two large and influential clubs of colored men, who were among the most attentive listeners at the meeting. I was informed by Mr. Collins, chairman of the state committee of Montana, that the colored people in that state are quite numerous and are preparing to take an independent stand, and are breaking away from the republican party.

Strange to say, this is being done without any solicitation or urging. They are coming into the party of their own free will. Feeling in the state over the robbery of precinct No. 34 is very intense.

"From Helena we proceeded to Spokane. In passing through Idaho we were met by requests at every prominent station to stop for a few days, but as our time was limited and we were traveling by schedule, we were compelled to proceed to Spokane to attend the 'second annual assembly of democratic clubs,' which was held in the opera house of that city.

"At the convention there were over 300 delegates, and it was held in session for two days, which, I think, shows conclusively the enthusiastic interest taken in the organization in Washington. And I would say here that the organization of the state of Washington has, by the herculean work of its secretary, George Hazzard, been placed in the foremost ranks. During the convention an address was made by C. A. Ridout, the leader of the colored democrats in that state.

"A year ago such a thing as a colored democrat was almost unknown in the state of Washington. But from some cause the negroes are joining the party of tariff reform rapidly. During our stay in Washington meetings were held at North Yakima, Ellensburg, Colfax, Wall-Walla, Vancouver, Olympia, Tacoma and Seattle. Through the state we found a number of clubs organizing as reform clubs, composed to a great extent of republicans who are willing to vote for the national ticket on the tariff reform issue.

In the state of Washington they have in Puget Sound one of the greatest waterways in the world, but such a thing as a vessel flying the American flag is a thing almost unknown, nearly all the carrying trade being done under foreign flags. It is this that is stirring the people up in that state, as they are unable to see why, under the protective system, American shipping is being driven from the waters, and they are willing to try tariff reform to see if that will help them.

"From Tacoma we proceeded south to Portland, where we held one of the largest meetings of the trip. We were told that it was, perhaps, the largest political meeting ever held in that city, and it was the first meeting at which nothing but national issues had been discussed. On our second day in Portland we held a meeting with the representative club men of the state and arranged for the formation of a state organization of clubs at an early date, the organization to consist of not only the regular club organizations but also of young men's democratic clubs.

"While in Oregon meetings were held at Albany and Eugene. At Portland we were met by a delegation from the Iroquois club of California, who escorted us into that state. The Iroquois clubs are something peculiar to California. They have 28 of them at different points in the state, and a state league.

"They have a regular initiation and ritual, their officers and members being dressed in Indian costume. Some of the costumes worn by the state officers are very magnificent and costly affairs. At the head of this organization, as grand sachem, is Mr. James V. Coleman, formerly well known here in Washington. On reaching San Francisco we were met by the officers of the state committee and the Manhattan club, an organization whic has one of the finest club houses on the Pacific coast.

"In San Francisco we had a large meeting at the Metropolitan hall. There were present between 5,000 and 6,000 people, and nearly as many were turned away, finding it impossible to gain entrance. Here we met a convention of representatives from every county in the state, and arranged for a meeting of representatives from all the clubs, to be held on January 8, to form a state league of democratic clubs.

"From San Francisco we turned eastward to attend a meeting called to organize the territorial league of clubs of Utah. The meeting was held at Salt Lake, and was very largely attended, representatives being present from a number of clubs and delegations present from every county in the state.

"While in Utah meetings were held in Ogden, Provo and Logan. At Provo there are large woolen mills that are now manufacturing large quantities of woolen goods. The operators at the mills and the wool-growers from the districts were present in great numbers to hear Mr. Bynum's masterly explanation of the woolen question. His explanation was well received and apparently satisfactory.

"In Utah we found the people of the territory suffering under an abuse of power in the shape of the 'Utah Commission'—a board that is un-American and unnecessary which was sent out first to look into the question of polygamy, but is now resolving itself simply into a political returning board, assuming all sorts of powers and passing on questions that it was never intended it should have anything to do with.

"The practice of polygamy has been abandoned in the territory, and I am thoroughly convinced that the Mormons are sincere in what they promise. It struck me that they were very much in the same position as the southern people were at the close of the war in relation to their slaves—rather pleased that the practice was a thing of the past.

It will be readily seen that it is the interest of this commission to make it appear that polygamy is still practiced, for the reason that their nice, fat berths of $5,000 a year depend on its existence. The federal judges, United States marshals and officials appointed under the Cleveland administration, who are at present in the territory, and who have a great deal to do in enforcing the laws, are now all against the continuation of the Utah commission.

"Our next stopping place was at Colorado Springs, where we made an attempt to visit Pike's Peak, but within a few hundred feet of the top we were met by a snow blockade, and were compelled to remain upon the peak eight or nine hours before we could be relieved. The next stopping place was at Denver, Colo. Here we had a very warm and enthusiastic reception.

"A large meeting was held at the Coliseum building, which was filled to overflowing, hundreds being turned away who were unable to gain admission. At this meeting a very curious incident transpired. While Senator Faulkner was making his speech he had to refer to an expression made by Mr. James G. Blaine.

"At the mentioning of Mr. Blaine's name about one-third of the audience went wild with enthusiasm. It looked very strange to see his name received so enthusiastically at a democratic meeting. The presumption was, however, that a large number of republicans were present to hear what our speakers had to say. At the mentioning of Mr. Harrison's name, however, there were no signs of applause.

"From Denver we proceeded to Cheyenne, Wyo., and from there to Omaha, where a large meeting was held in Armory hall, which was filled to its utmost capacity. The last meeting of the trip was held at Plattsburg., Neb., from which point our party proceeded to their homes with the exception of Mr. Bynum, who speaks this week in Ohio."

"Are the members of your party satisfied with the results of their trip?"

"As far as I have been able to learn they are more than pleased, but results in politics are something that can be known only after the battle is over. While we feel that a great work has been accomplished, it will not be until 1892 that the effects of the work can be felt. I was very much astonished at the number of young men I met through the northwest who had been formerly connected with the press of Washington, and some of them are now holding prominent positions on the press in the different cities.

MAKING THINGS BOOM.

Four Democratic Meetings Held Last Night.

Upper Sandusky, Oct. 29.—Four rousing democratic meetings were held in the county last night At Carey Hon. Owen W. Scott, of Cleveland, spoke. The hall was crowded to the doors and the distinguished gentleman made an admirable address.

Hon. C. W. Lamison, of Lima, and Hon. W. C. Gear, candidate for senator, addressed large turnouts at Marseilles, and at Salem Center and Mifflin Center addresses were made to large audiences by Hons. D. D. Clayton and Chas. Bell, and Judges Smalley and Gibson, respectively.

Unless the signs of the times mistake, Campbell will go out of Wyandot with 1,000 majority.

CYCLERS SMOKE.

Pleasant Evening's Entertainment at the Cycling Club Headquarters.

The Cyclers gave one of their famous "Smokers' at the club's handsome headquarters on Ontario street last evening, and like all their periodical socials was an unqualified and distinct success. The informality makes it almost as pleasant to the casual visitor as the whole-hearted hospitality.

The club rooms are, without exception, the finest of the kind in the country, and eastern visitors admit the fact. There is nothing lacking.

Last evening the boys indulged in various pastimes which were sandwiched with dainty though substantial refreshments.

The institution is a credit and an honor to the city, but like other home societies Toledo hardly seems to understand or appreciate the fact.

On Sunday the club will take a run to Bowling Green.

THEIR FIRST PARTY.

The Traveling Men Will Entertain This Evening.

To-night the United Commercial Travelers will give their opening party of the season, at Odd Fellows' hall. Leon's full orchestra will furnish music for those who desire to dance. Cards and other social amusements will also furnish a pleasant diversion. It is well known that the boys are the most sociable lot of fellows in existence, under any and all circumstances, and all who attend their party will be royally entertained.

A RAILROADER'S LIFE.

Filled With Constant Danger—The Experience of Mr. G. R. Updyke and His Statements of His Rescue.

Every business in life has its accompanying dangers, but from the numerous accidents in which both life and limb are lost it would seem that railroading is the most hazardous. Not only are those thus engaged subject to accidental dangers but their work, exposed as they are to all kinds of weather, renders them more liable to disease, especially catarrhal affections.

Mr. G. R. Updyke, yard-conductor of the Pennsylvania lines in Toledo, residing at 2101 Erie street, in speaking of his many troubles said:

Mr. G. R. Updyke, 2101 Erie street, Toledo.

"I have suffered most miserably for five years. I had occasional violent headaches. My eyes were weak and watery and my nose was continually stopped up. This was due somewhat to the accumulation of mucus, more especially to a number of Nasal Polypi "that filled both nostrils. I had to continually hawk and spit. I felt tired in the morning. I had occasional stabbing, at other times dull, pains about the region of the heart.

"I could scarcely breath at times, but after taking treatment of Drs. Copeland and Buffett, who immediately removed the polypi without the slightest pain or loss of blood, my breathing at once became much improved. My pains, aches and troubles almost miraculously disappeared until now I feel better than I have felt for years." They have worked such a great change in my condition that I unhesitatingly recommend them to all those who suffer."

Representative Men.

MR. C. E. McLEAN, 935 Indiana avenue, connected with Roth and Freedman's dyeing establishment, says: "Drs. Copeland and Buffett worked wonders in my case. My catarrhal trouble has disappeared under their skillful treatment. I cannot recommend them too highly.

MR. N. R. DULL, 2215 Lorlie street, contracting carpenter, says: "I recommend Drs. Copeland and Buffett as physicians of marked ability. They relieved me of a catarrhal complaint of long standing.

MR. JOSEPH COOMBS, watchman at the "Blade" building, residing 383 Indiana avenue, says: "To the diligent, faithful, scientific and skillful treatment I received of Drs. Copeland and Buffett do I attribute the fact of my being restored to health."

MR. EUGENE McCARTHY, a member of the Toledo police force, residing at 316 Knower street says: "Drs. Copeland and Buffett cured me of an aggravating hay fever and I unhesitatingly recommend these physicians."

Treated by Mail.

The following testimonial furnishes a notable case of the results of Drs. Copeland and Buffett's system of treatment by mail:

Drs. Copeland and Buffett, respectfully.

"I hereby certify that I have used your catarrh remedies as directed, that you sent me by mail, and have received great benefit thereby. And I fully believe that a permanent cure will be obtained by continuing the use of your medicines a reasonable length of time, which I am very anxious to do." Yours truly,

Mrs. Minnie White,

PIG! PIG! PIG! PIG! PIG!

The Frenchman is Calling to Our Hog.

A Strong Indorsement in the Senate of the Republic for American Meats

Paris, Oct. 30.—The senate has declared urgent the discussion on the question of duty on salt meats. M. Roche, the minister of commerce, read a number of reports showing that trichinosis did not exist in Great Britain and Belgium, which countries were freely importing American pork.

The existence of this disease in Germany, therefore, he said, was due to native meats. All learned bodies, M. Roche declared, had agreed that American meats were innocuous, and the admission of these meats into France would be the greatest boon to the working people of the country.

It was more needful to beware of German meats entering France, duty free. Furthermore, in spite of the prohibition on American meats, they actually entered France by indirect means.

Other members having spoken for and against the bill, the government demanded its adoption, on the ground that the United States was legitimate, and that France ought to comply with it in the interests of the trade of the two countries.

The motion was then adopted by a vote of 179 to 64, and the senate proceeded to the discussion of the clauses of the measure.

The chamber of deputies, by a vote of 264 to 205 adopted a resolution holding the railway directors responsible for the numerous accidents which have occurred recently on their various lines.

Divorce and Railroad Suits in the Courts.

Democratic Rally—Both Parties Afraid to Bet on the Result of the Ohio Election

Findlay, O., Oct. 30.—(Special)—Very little betting is being done in this city among the local betting fraternity over the result of the great battle of next Tuesday. Both parties want large odds before they will stake much money. No great amounts have been put up.

A Narrow Escape.

Lon. Bennett, the foreman in W. H. Campfield's and Son's factory, had a narrow escape from being torn to pieces while at work yesterday by his clothing catching in the rapidly revolving shafting. His fellow workmen observed him in time to stop the engine, thus saving his life. His clothes were torn off.

Another Divorce Case.

Jennie W. Stevenson wants a divorce from her husband, Geo. B. Stevenson, on the grounds of extreme cruelty, failure to provide and abandonment. The plaintiff is the eldest daughter of Judge M. C. Whitely, a well known attorney. The parties were married in this city in May, 1881. The defendant is supposed to be in Chicago.

A Railroad Suit.

C. N. Haskill, of Ottawa, formerly the moving spirit in the Mahoning and American Midland railroad, has commenced suit in common pleas court against the Findlay, Ft. Wayne and Western company, the present successors of the former roads for the possession of six acres of land at West Park, on which the company's shops, freight yards and round house are located. He wants the lands sold so he can get his pay out of it for his hard work in building the road.

A Boiler Explosion.

During the noon hour yesterday the boiler in Sid. Finks sawmill in the western part of the city let go with a loud report. The building was blown to pieces by the force of the explosion. The accident happened at an opportune time as the employes were all to dinner. The cause is given that the engineer had too much fire for the amount of water he had in the boiler.

Arrested.

S. A. Beeler, an employe of the Bradford Glycerine company, was arrested yesterday for hauling a wagon containing 56 cans of nitro glycerine through the city contrary to a city ordinance. He gave bond for $100 for his appearance November 7.

Last Democratic Rally.

Hon. John E. Lamb, of Indiana, and Hon. Jerome W. Turner, of Michigan, will address the democracy of this city and vicinity at the wigwam this evening. This will close the campaign in this city for the democrats.

CLUB AND SOCIAL.

A Delightful Social with Mrs. A. D. Pelton Last Evening.

The Ladies' union of the church of Our Father held their first evening social for the season last evening with Mrs. A. D. Pelton, 327 Huron street. There were about 70 guests present, the majority of whom were ladies, as is natural in these days (and nights) of extreme political agitation. A number were new people who will hereafter be enrolled among the members of the union. The evening was spent in social converse and getting acquainted with one another, and was a most delightful one. The business meetings of the union are held twice each month, in the afternoon. The occasional evening meetings of the union are for purely social purposes and are very enjoyable.

The Political Equality club meets tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in room 9, Fort Industry block, corner of Summit and Monroe streets. All members are urged to be present and to bring their friends, as at this meeting the rest of the officers of the club will be elected. A special invitation is extended to teachers, as it is for them the club meetings have been set for Saturday afternoon.

The First W. C. T. U. of Toledo meets to-morrow afternoon at the Adams street mission. This is an important meeting, among the questions to be decided being the change of place of meeting, the formation of a Loyal legion, and the bringing out of Mrs. Josephine Scott's play, "The Daughters of the Nation."

The Day Nursery circle of King's Daughters meets to-morrow afternoon with the circle at the First Congregational church, at the close of Marion Lawrance's Sunday school teachers' meeting.

Flannel Cakes.

BY NELLIE CAMPBELL BEDFORD.

Four cups flour; one-half cup white corn meal; four eggs; one tablespoonful butter, melted; two cups milk; one teaspoonful salt; two level teaspoonfuls Cleveland's Baking Powder. Beat the yolks and whites of the eggs separately. Mix the flour, meal, salt and baking powder, add the milk, egg yolks and melted butter and beat hard. Stir in the stiffly beaten whites and bake on a hot griddle.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

If cake dries out, gets husky, crumbly, or tasteless like bakers' bread, it isn't bad luck but bad baking powder.

Cake keeps moist, keeps its natural flavor when made with Cleveland's Baking Powder. One special excellence of Cleveland's.

POLANDERS IN LINE

For the Democratic Ticket—They Will Vote as They Please.

W. Dalkowski, a prominent Polish resident of the Seventh ward, called on a Bee to-day relative to a screed translated from a local Polish paper in the Blade of yesterday. He said:

"The statement that the democrats have never done anything for the Polish people of Toledo is untrue, and it is untrue that the Polish people of this city have been asked by democrats to vote for democratic candidates because they were Catholic. Parviski claims he has the Polish vote of the city in his pocket. This is not true, and we will show him on election day that it is not true.

"It is also untrue that the Poles have been unfairly treated by democrats. Whatever little we have received we have got from democrats."

Great Influence Being Brought to Bear to Prevent Boyer and McCamant from Being Impeached

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 30.—Judge Orvis, of Bellefont, made an elaborate argument at the morning session of the senate, in opposition to the claims of the governor, as recognized in his proclamation and message, that the senate has power by a two-third vote to address the executive requesting the removal of officials for misbehavior and misdemeanor in office.

He cited a large number of authorities to show that the senate had no such power and contended that no person elected to office by the people, commissioned and who has entered on the discharge of its duties, could be removed as proposed, unless previously impeached or convicted.

He regarded the cases under consideration—those of State Treasurer Boyer and Auditor General McCamant—the most important since the decision of the supreme court in the Mulligan case, holding that no person charged with a civil offense could be tried by a military commission. The proposition to remove the officials, he said, ought to startle the commonwealth, so monstrous was it.

TOLEDO MANUFACTURERS

To Sue the Village of Van Buren for Obstructing the Gas Output.

It is reported to-day that several factories from which gas has or is about to be cut off propose sueing the authorities of Van Buren for damages on account of the loss sustained by that village preventing the city using the gas owned by it there.

Mr. Walbridge was asked by a Bee this morning what he knew about it and he replied, nothing. He believed such suit could be brought and damages secured.

It is hinted that the suit will be commenced by some manufacturer in the interest of the city.

EAST SIDE NOTES.

Sixth Ward People Rejoicing at the Prospect of Rapid Transit.

This smiling Indian summer weather makes the East Side people very happy. What they would have done had heavy rains impeded the work of paving Bridge street is too dreadful to contemplate. The pavers have a force of 100 men at work in the short strip from the bridge to Front street, and are making marvelous strides toward completing the job of getting down a solid pavement. The Consolidated company will soon have its trolley up along Summit street, and when that is done East Side passengers on the electric cars will no longer be dumped at Adams street.

The returns from the registry show how our ward over the river is growing, but a better idea is gleaned by standing on the bridge for a moment and watching the morning and evening passage over it. The loaded cars, the stream of foot passengers, the string of teams, all moving in both directions, tell the story. It is already seen that the city was short-sighted in not having this bridge constructed twelve feet wider. What is to be done? A city official said to a Bee this morning that the center of the bridge should now be given over to teams; what is now the sidewalk on each side should be for street car tracks, going and coming; and a new sidewalk should be built on, on each side, for foot passengers. Can this be done?

Mr. and Mrs. J. McLain, 138 Gardner street, have been entertaining this week Mrs. B. Burwell and son and Capt. James Voorhes of Grand Rapids, Mich., Mrs. David Hanna and Mrs. Frank Hanna of McClure, O., all relatives of Mr. McLain.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, East Side Y. M. C. A., meets in Weber block at 7:30 Wednesday evening next. The meeting has been changed from Tuesday night on account of election.

The East Side Sabbath school teachers meet in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Weber block, at 7:30 this evening.

FIRE IN THE MARSH.

Glassboro Barn of the Consolidated Burned to the Ground.

A bad fire broke out in the marsh north of town yesterday afternoon and by 6 o'clock a large area was burning fiercely. The department was called out, but could do little toward subduing the flames.

The frame car barn of the Consolidated Street Railway company at the end of the Glassboro line, caught fire and was burned to the ground. The loss to the street railway company will be about $2,000, covered by $1,000 of insurance.

LEFT THEIR PRISON CELLS.

Three Men Escape from Jackson Penitentiary.

They Constructed a Tunnel, Secured Overalls and Dinner Pails, and Deliberately Walked Away.

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 30.—John Donovan, Walter Briquet and Charles Kean escaped from the state penitentiary yesterday.

Their escape was an exceedingly clever one. They had tunnelled 40 feet to the street where a sewer in process of construction made escape easy. Each in some manner secured overalls, blouse and a dinner pail. While the other convicts were at dinner at noon yesterday these three entered the tunnel, changed their prison garb for the stolen clothes and made off. The guards saw them, but supposed they were laborers.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

What Eyes Did Not See.

To the Editor—Saturday's issue of the Blade has a news item headed "Mr. Thompson believes his Eyes." We are not informed upon what basis the belief is founded, but no doubt the readers of that paper will all rejoice to know that the fullest confidence has been established between Mr. Thompson and his optics. It would have been more satisfactory perhaps if the Blade could have assured us that Mr. T., "who by the way is a democrat (?) with strong republican instincts" had during his peregrinations through the state discovered a tin mill, or a laborer who has had his wages increased, or a farmer who is benefited by the McKinley bill. If he has been everywhere in the state, as he claims, with his keen vision, he ought to have seen these things if they existed. It appears, however, that his trip had another object, and his wonderful intellect and powers of observation were directed in an entirely different direction. With a frankness worthy of our warmest commendation, he tells the newspaper man, that at every stopping place he could not find a man ready to bet a brass coin on Campbell's election unless he got big odds. I infer from this that the zealous democrat (?) Mr. T. has returned to Toledo with some uninvested pennies and his trip will not prove a financial success.

The item intends to tell us that Mr. T.'s vision is good, that he does not squint, is not color blind, or gimlet-eyed, but when he tells us that McKinley is a Prime Favorite everywhere in the state, he simply advertises the fact that he is woefully deficient in all the faculties of mind that go to make up intelligence and common sense. Of coures he has a right to talk as much foolishness as he wishes, but the poverty of the republican press is clearly shown, when we see to what straits they are driven, when obliged to dish up such rubbish to their readers.

COLORED DEMOCRATS

A mass meeting will be held in the park, and addresses will be made by Prof. Wm. H. Morton, of Detroit, and Prof. F. E. White, of Toledo. This club of colored democrats has a large membership and has been doing good work. Henry Craig is president, Henry Binga vice president, and F. E. White secretary.

A "Beauty" Show Wrecked Because the Girls Were Not Handsome.

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—A Melbourne letter says that the beauty show in the Olympia theater was completely wrecked by an enraged mob. An immense crowd was present on the opening night and the style of beauty on exhibition not being up to their expectations, they wrecked the place. Two of the employes had narrow escapes from being seriously injured in the melee. Treasurer Isaacs was mobbed in his office and would have been badly hurt but for the timely interference of the police.

UNABLE TO CARE FOR A BOY.

And He Is in the Hands of the Humane Society.

Last Saturday the infirmary directors sent Mrs. Brooks to Detroit with a demented boy, who claimed that his home was in Detroit. Upon arriving at that city he said he lived near the market. After hunting for about two hours for the boy's home, Mrs. Brooks turned him over to the chief of police, who promised to attend to the case and report to Mrs. Brooks.

This morning a Detroit paper was received with the following account of the whereabouts of his parents:

Fred Eberts, who was brought from Toledo last Saturday, was found to be the step-son of Mrs. Hibbard, who lives on Porter street. She had heard nothing of the boy for the past two years. Seven years ago the father attempted to place the boy in a reform school, but he was immediately discharged from there because he was not in his right mind. He was then placed in St. Anthony' orphan asylum and was discharged from there two years ago. Since then he has been working in different places, his last employer being Mr. Steinmenn. Mr. Hibbard deserted his wife some time ago and she claims she is not able to take care of the boy."

The Humane society is doing a great work, and this is only one of many cases that come under their care, that might be cited.

Byrne and Van Der Horst had a long talk, in which the latter said he thought it was time that the hot-headed representatives of both the leading organizations stepped down and out and gave some of the clear-headed ones a chance to adjust all existing differences. HANDKERCHIEFS RUCHINGS CHIFFONS | We show new styles. Look to us for novelties. LASALLE & KOCH.

IT IS AN IMPORTANT FACT THAT IN "SHANDON BELLS SOAP"

You get a perfume in delicacy and richness of odor, in which "Otto of Roses" contributes a large share, equal to the best handkerchief extract, and another still more important fact, you acquire by the purchase of one cake of "Shandon Bells" soap as much perfume as you could purchase for the price of two cakes of Shandon Bells soap. This is a startling statement; but it is nevertheless true. The marketing of bottled perfumery is tended with much expense, the bottle alone costing about one-third as much as the perfumery; the other expense attending it is at once observable. The cheapest and most economical use of perfumery is to buy a supply of "Shandon Bells" soap and place it in close association with your handkerchief and wearing apparel, and after a week or so you will find a most delightful odor permeating all these articles, distributed in equal and uniform manner. Of course, for benefit of trade, we expect you to replace this soap by new purchases, to take the place of that which has already served you in one purpose.

The use of Shandon Bells Soap will give you quite as much satisfaction; your skin, for hours, will impart a most grateful and refreshing odor. The soap itself will wash down as thin as a wafer, without breaking or crumbling, etc., etc.

Lumber Yard Wiped Out by Flames.

A Valuable Bridge Destroyed—Good Work by the Firemen Prevented Much Greater Damage.

Norwalk, O., Oct. 20.—(Special)—This morning about 1 o'clock Smith and Himberger's planing mill and lumber yard south of the court house was discovered to be on fire.

Having caught in a long shingle shed, along side the Wheeling and Lake Erie track, it is supposed sparks from a locomotive was the cause.

The lumber was entirely burned, but through the efforts of the firemen the planing mill and adjoining buildings were saved.

A high bridge which spanned the flat connecting the north and south sides of the city over the lumber yard was totally destroyed.

Loss on lumber from $12,000 to $15,000; insured for $7,000, in the following mutual companies: Richland Mutual, Knox, Western, Ohio, Mansfield, Reserve, Sandusky.

The bridge which cost $7,000, was insured for $4,000, in the Phoenix and Hartford.

A Labor Leader Who Talks from the Shoulder,

Protesting Against the Self-Appointed Owners of the Workingmen's Votes in Toledo.

To the Editor: The clique of Central Labor union claquers who for several weeks past have been parading before the public as the leaders of organized labor in Toledo, have overrun the limits of forbearance, and I, as a member of one of the oldest unions in the city, as president of the Building Trades council and an ex-delegate to the Central Labor union, desire through the Bee to enter an emphatic protest against their assumption of leadership, and an absolute denial that the clique controls, directly or indirectly, a single vote of the 2,800 union men of this city.

Mr. Voit is a newcomer in Toledo. He assumed to speak for organized labor when he stated at the McKinley meeting that thousands of workingmen in Toledo had their wages advanced on account of the McKinley bill. Mr. Voit has been heard to say repeatedly that protection has not and cannot benefit his trade—that of glassworking—that organization, not protection, was what advanced the wages of the glassworker. Why this change of heart?

John J. Lorden, a glassworker and formerly president of the Central Labor union, was as radical in advocating the democratic doctrine of tariff reform as Messrs. Voit and Fellows are in advocating a high tariff.

Mr. Lorden, however, never prostituted the sacred cause of labor for political preferment, or his own material advancement.

Mr. Otis assumes to lead another contingent of toilers. He should be able to speak from personal experience of the benefits accruing from the McKinley bill, for he has been doing nothing else but hunt work all summer. After election he will have leisure to hunt for the individual who has had his wages increased by the McKinley bill.

Van Epps is another duck of the same breed. His Cleveland record as a printer has followed him to Toledo, and the idea of him speaking for the union printers of Toledo is enough to make a horse laugh.

Hancock and another who has heretofore figured as a democrat, presume to speak for the 400 street car men. Hancock had better return to the profession he had before he joined the street car service. It was not, perhaps, quite as safe or as strictly lawful as street car operating, but then he didn't have to work days.

This is the first time since the Central Labor union was organized eight years ago, that an attempt has been made to drag the organization into the quagmire of political corruption, and the attempt, let me say, will not be successful.

There is just one thing for the workingmen of Toledo to do, and that is, to lay out these self-appointed dictators by voting against their candidates next Tuesday. By doing this we will be doing organized labor a service, and at the same time ridding ourselves of a clique that cannot fail but work us and our cause great injury. JOSEPH McMAHON.

Large Crowds Gather at Wilmington To-Day to Hear the Governor do Battle for Lower Taxes.

Wilmington, O., Oct. 30.—(Special)—Gov. Campbell reached Wilmington shortly after 10 o'clock and was met at the station by a large delegation of citizens and the Fourteenth Regiment band. He was escorted to the hotel and for an hour held a reception, many of the leading citizens of both parties calling on him.

The meeting here had been advertised for three days only, yet there was a large number of farmers in the town to get a glimpse of and hear the democratic standard bearer.

The meeting was held in the Town hall at noon, and long before the governor reached the building it was packed and hundreds were unable to secure admission.

General J. W. Denver was chairman of the meeting and when the governor was introduced he received a magnificent ovation.

He spoke on the tariff question, and although somewhat hoarse in the beginning, soon had the large audience in sympathy with him and his drives at the McKinley law were enthusiastically applauded.

At the conclusion of the governor's speech he took the train for Washington Court House, where he speaks at 3 o'clock.

HOW TO VOTE.

All persons who are opposed to McKinley and high taxes should vote just this way: Put an X at the left of the words "Democratic Ticket," thus:

X | DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Now get out the full democratic vote and Lucas county will be democratic.

All the republican orators in the state cannot make Williams county give a republican majority this year.

George Bodette's lips are still sealed by Englehardt, who is afraid to allow the Central avenue stone road investigation to proceed.

Chairman Hahn says the democratic ship is sinking with all on board. Five hundred thousand of us, eh, admiral? What a jolly splash.

Hundreds of republicans will vote the entire democratic ticket in Lucas county this year and the big majorities of recent years will entirely disappear.

There is a little county seat war in Ottawa county which will insure a very large vote. The larger the vote the bigger the democratic majority, see?

Ex-Senator Soncrant is doing splendid work in the Thirtieth district for Candidate Stewart. All the forces are in line and a big democratic victory may be expected.

John B. Stuart is intolerant enough to deserve defeat, and without the shadow of a doubt he will be defeated. Harry Dowling will be the next sheriff of Lucas county.

It must have fed Gen. Alger's vanity to hear an uncertain quantity like James Ashley assure Tom Reed's Toledo audience that he (Alger) was "equally distinguished" with the Maine wind-bag.

Mr. Flickinger has not attempted to deny that he once denied his nationality, neither has he attempted to deny that deceived Hon. Jacob Romeis at the republican convention. These chickens will come home to roost.

Last year the republicans of Lucas county had Jim Ashley's pockets to pick for campaign funds, and now they have the monopolistic protectionists of the east to furnish pin money. The boys hereabouts are in luck.

Dr. J. O. Allen of Fayette is making a splendid race for representative. If the people of Fulton county would study republican politics less and their own interests more they would send Dr. Allen to the legislature. He is a very able and conservative man in all respects.

John M. Carson, Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, has made a careful political canvass of Ohio. He is an unprejudiced writer and prints the news as he finds it. Mr. Carson was in Toledo this week and informed the Bee that Gov. Campbell is making remarkable progress and is gaining votes every day. He also predicted the election of a democratic legislature.

With Secretary Blaine in his department at Washington, why isn't all the lovely talk about arbitration and the universal brotherhood of American peoples, that was spread upon the books at the Pan-American congress, quoted and applied in this trouble with Chili? Like all the wonderful achievements of the Harrison administration, it is only theory and print and not available for daily use.

The Commercial says the Bee should not accuse it of not treating John W. Canary fairly. Bless your dear soul, the Bee intended no such accusation. The republican papers of the district have tried to besmirch him but as the Commercial does not lay claim to an overfawning allegiance to party, we did not have that paper in view. The particularly ugly organ is the Blade, but it is hardly to be censured, as it is constructed on such illiberal lines that it couldn't, if it would, say a kind word for a democratic candidate for any office.

Admiral Hahn, of the canal marine of Ohio, temporarily chairman of the republican state committee, has actually used the red hot and hissing telegraph to say that this honey Bee buzzed a lie. The admiral says he never conceded the state to Campbell. The Bee's informant is a man of veracity and, even though Hahn denies it now, it is more than probable the chairman gave expression to his belief in Campbell's election. It would be evidence of his good judgment if he thought so, and he would be in line with people generally who have studied the situation.

Ex-Speaker Reed like too many other Yankees, imagines the eastern seaboard to be the heart, lungs and liver of the country and the middle states somewhere near the extremities. He said last night, when he heard of the distress among western farmers he "came into Ohio to see for himself." Mr. Reed might go through the rural districts in New England for statistics, instead of coming "west" into Ohio. Or he might have read his party's census report on farm mortgages and located them. Mr Reed would better study his lesson. Audiences "out west" in Ohio are not made up of fools.

Republican orators have concluded to forego argument, for their cause will not bear logical analysis. They attempt sarcasm and ridicule. Some of them make rather coarse work of it. And Wind-bag Reed is the clumsiest one that has struck Toledo yet. Imagine a man who poses as a "statesman" putting forth for wit such gabble as this:

"The democratic party charges that a protective tariff has robbed the people of the United States out of $30,000,000,000. When we got this country it was worth $30,000,000, and we have robbed it of $30,000,000,000. According to this there is no United States. We have gobbled it up, and instead of sittin here in this place you must be sitting out doors in a hole in the sky."

It may be said most emphatically that the United States government would better investigate Minister Egan and his unwarranted action before it demands satisfaction of Chili. The Chilian minister, in Washington, declares to the state department that Egan is directly responsible for the trouble and that his espionage and interference cost the victorious party a thousand soldiers. In short, Egan acted as spy for Balmaceda. The accusations of Minister Montt should be met before any jingoism is indulged in, or any cheap rattle is gotten up for political effect. It may be policy for the administration to stand by its man, but the country demands to know the facts in the case.

The fall forest fires are raging again in various localities in the west and southwest. The perpetual question arises, is there no way to check this wholesale destruction and devastation? Certainly there is. The brush burners and the railway companies can be made legally responsible for the damages their fires create. Vigilant watchfulness can prevent the majority of them. Why is it not done? It would seem that a little less politics and a little more legislation for the good of state woodlands, state roads and local sanitation would help the every-day farmer more than all the McKinley enactments, whose benefits come to him "incidentally," and so very incidentally he is never conscious of the influx.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about the corruption of state finances by republican administrationists in Pennsylvania is the manner in which business men handle cash and drafts and "forget" day, date and nature of transaction, but "suppose," etc., in an off-hand fashion, as if the crime of robbing the state treasury for money to swell the campaign funds was an incidental matter that need not be fussed about to the extent of investigation. Wanamaker couldn't "recollect" and Quay "presumes" but doesn't "remember distinctly" and "knows nothing personally" about the trifling amount of $9,000 drawn from the Keystone bank for campaign purposes. He has "forgotten the details." And these are the men who are running the Harrison administration and are cheek by jowl with the president.

At one time the republican party made boast that all the educated men of the country were in its ranks, and it did possess its share of them. As the boodle element of the party gave itself into the clutch of monopolists, and, contrary to the avowed doctrines of its early and revered leaders, adopted the wild theories that taxation brings trade and increase, and strikes and mortgages are signs of prosperity, students of present-day and past-day political economy refused to follow such doctrines. Now the party sneers at "impracticable students" and lauds the man who gives no thought or attention to the subject, but sees just what party organs and orators point out to him. The moment a man, not personally benefited by tribute from his neighbors, begins honestly to study cause and effect in tariff legislation, that moment his faith in present-day republican theories wavers. No wonder the party organ sneers at "the student." The monstrous thing it attempts to foist upon the country in the name of benefit to American labor must find its strength in the ignorance and passiveness of its supporters, if it shall maintain it at all. Why should free men be afraid of free trade when free labor in the world's market has out advertisements for contracts? If free trade is such a bugaboo why do the organs boast of every little glimmer of it that is able to get in through the reciprocity rift Mr. Blaine made in the McKinley law?

REPUBLICAN CONSISTENCY!

Early in the campaign the advocates of the new tariff law conceded that "a man would have to pay a little more for a woolen coat than he did before, but his higher wages would enable him to do so," with a margin over. Now republicans deny these things and say that "the garment is reduced in price, and wages—well, wages would go all to pieces if it were not for protection." If the cost is reduced in price one can hardly see how the manufacturer is helped any, and the wonder is that manufacturers will clamor for a law that reduces the price of their products!

We were also told that the tariff would shut out foreign goods and give the home producer a corner on the home buyer. But even that is old-fashioned" now because it hasn't come to pass; so they jump over onto the other horn and say—"the democrats said the tax would diminish imports and it has increased them." And still the wonder is who is getting the milk from this cocoanut.

Mr. McKinley said early in the campaign, of course prices will be higher on prohibited goods 'for a time," but eventually they will be lower. But some of his orating followers declare "the foreign tradesman pays the tax." Yet the government gives the manufacturer a "rebate" when his goods go out of the country. Odd, isn't it? This is done so the home manufacturer can make prices on his goods that will allow them to come into competition with goods made in the country where he desires to sell them. So American plows and reapers and mowers cost the farmer less money in Canada than in the United States, and American cutlery can be bought cheaper in Sheffield than it can in Toledo. These are instances where "the foreigner pays the tax!" Then the sugar illustration, regarding which not a republican orator during this campaign has attempted to explain the example: how a tariff did not keep up the price, yet to take off the tariff saves the people millions of dollars of tax money! The only thing they boast about is "Look at the free sugar; we did that." Then they keep whist about the bounty to "encourage production" when the tax was removed (according to Mr. McKinley) because it could not be produced in this country. And they also keep whist when somebody asks them if free sugar (and a bounty) is so saving, helpful and economical, why not try free wool? All these questions remained unanswered and all these contradictions unexplained. You can knock down every one of their arguments with some other of their own declarations; but they refuse to look or listen or answer. Why?

REQUIRED SOME CALL,

But the Republican Committee Was Equal.

Demand Made on the Board of Elections for the Official Ballot—A Point Blank Refusal.

An interesting discussion occurred at the headquarters of the board of elections this morning during which a pronounced repupblican leader was summarily sat down upon by that body.

Mr. Frank Rickenbaugh appeared before the board in behalf of the republican executive committee and requested that the board give him a copy of the official ballot that he might have some printed.

The board asked Mr. Rickenbaugh what he wanted with the official ballot, to which the gentleman replied that the republicans were going to have them printed to instruct ignorant voters.

"I for one oppose any such a plan," said Mr. Tolerton, "and shall most certainly vote against it. Mr. Rickenbaugh comes here and demands a complete copy of the official ballot that he may have it printed to be used. If we give it to one we will have to give it to all, and the first thing we know everybody will be supplied with all the tickets they want. I don't think that anybody has any right to have a ticket printed in any form."

A vote was taken, and it was unanimously agreed not to let the ballot out.

Mr. Rickenbaugh was asked why they couldn't use the blanks that have been in use.

"Because," said Rickenbaugh, "they are different from what the official ballot will be, and on election day we want to be there with tickets on the outside."

"We gave you opportunity to have instructors at the booths, and I think that is enough," said Mr. Tolerton in conclusion.

Respects to Reed.

The moon-faced parliamentary pirate Tom Reed of Maine, assistant chief looter and leader of the McKinley Billion Dollar Congress, is not making any votes for his pal in Ohio. The people generally look upon Reed and his history as a page to be torn from the record of the country, too disgraceful for posterity to peruse, and a blot upon decent government.—Mansfield Shield and Banner.

Well Deserved Compliment.

Mr. Cleveland has answered his own question: What shall we do with our ex-presidents? He is taking a more healthy interest in the cause of good government, and doing more to serve his country by serving the party which he believes has the interests of the country most at heart, than any ex-president since John Quincy Adams. — Chicago Times.

An Offset For Harrison Whisky.

The rum question is one of the leading issues in Iowa, and the republican papers are printing a picture of a bottle labelled "The Boies Delight Bourbon Whisky," with Gov. Boies' head surmounting the cork. This ought to offset Mr. Carnegie's consignment of Scotch whisky.—Boston Herald.

The McKinley Bill.

"If I were in the senate I would stamp it under my feet and spit upon it!"

"It is the most shameful measure ever proposed to a civilized people!"

"Go on with it and it will carry our party to perdition!"—Secretary James G. Blaine, July 19, 1890.

No Hope for Wanamaker Now.

Only a million and a half subsidy—or bribe—will be necessary to carry out Brother Wanamaker's scheme of transatlantic mail service. How the postmaster general must wish that the question of the appropriation could come before the Billion Dollar Congress.—Boston Globe.

He Has Found Out What Ails Him.

When a lank farmer, accompanied by two biting dogs, catches a boy up a peach tree, that boy's thoughts are apt to turn to reform. The republican boy up the political tree just now is thinking seriously about doing better in the future.—Texas Siftings.

Poison and Protection.

A stew-pan made of such "tin plate" as the Ohio "McKinley and Protection" campaign medals are made of, would give off salts of lead enough in cooking a stew in it to poison an entire family.—Napoleon Democratic Northwest.

Time He Squawked.

The Money Kings of this country surpass Turgout in knowing how to pluck the goose without making it squawk, but they seem recently to have lost their skill, and the American goose (the consumer) is making a big noise.—Middletown Signal.

Tom and Jerry.

Tom Reed wisely kept out of the Ohio campaign until Jerry Simpson had finished. Even Ohioans would have been staggered by too much "Tom and Jerry."—Elmira Gazette.

Out of Reach.

"This watch is $800; solid gold case." "That's too much money. What's the price of that silver one?" "That isn't silver, it is American tin. We ask $1,000 for that watch."—New York Herald.

A Yawning Chasm.

Secretary Foster has knocked as big a hole in the Civil Service Idea as the late lamented congress knocked in the United States treasury.—Columbus Post.

One State Issue.

The last legislature saved the people of Ohio $2,000,000 a year on the cost of school books. This is a "state issue."—Upper Sandusky Union.

One of the Reasons.

Gov. Campbell will be re-elected because the people of Ohio admire a brave and honest man.—Bucyrus Forum.

Governor Campbell Talks to Thousands.

Hundreds of Horsemen Join in Procession

And Follow the Leader from Town to Town.

Little Cities Not Big Enough to Hold the People.

After a Hard Day's Work on the Stump the Governor Drives Thirty-Three Miles to Fill His Hillsboro Date at Night.

Hillsboro, O., Oct. 30.—(Special)—Yesterday was another interesting day in Gov. Campbell's campaigning tour along the river counties. In order to reach Manchester the governor crossed over into Kentucky at Ironton and went down on the Chesapeake & Ohio road. When the train stopped opposite Manchester he found a delegation waiting to escort him across the river. When the Ohio side was reached it was found that the little town was bubbling over with enthusiasm.

The governor was driven to the public square, where he found an audience of 2,000 people awaiting his coming. He was placed in a carriage and talked for 15 minutes, urging the people to go to the polls on election day and telling them that a democratic legislature made it possible for them to cast a secret ballot.

He was cheered time and again during his talk, and when he had finished about every man, woman and child in the town pressed forward to take him by the hand.

From Manchester there was a drive of ten miles to West Union, the county seat of Adams county. This is one of the most uncertain counties in the state and every campaign there is a hand to hand fight between the two parties. When the governor's carriage left Manchester it was followed by a band and a long string of vehicles and horsemen.

At each cross-road the impromptu procession increased in size, and when West Union was reached it was fully two miles in length.

At West Union there was another procession waiting to receive the governor, and an attempt was made to unite the cavalcade and form one procession, but it was too big to handle and in a short time the streets of the little town were completely blockaded with vehicles, horses, shouting democrats and brass bands.

There was a round of handshaking, a short stop for dinner, and then the governor proceeded to the fair ground, where the speaking took place. The people of West Union declare that the meeting was the largest ever held in Adams county, and it was certainly a rouser.

Ten thousand people would be a low estimate of the crowd present and there were many men who have had experience in handling large crowds who gave it out that in their opinion there were 15,000 present. One thing is quite sure, one-third of the people were unable to get within hearing distance of the speakers and an overflow meeting was organized.

Allen W. Thurman addressed this meeting at first and later on he and Gov. Campbell exchanged places so that all of the people might see and hear the two distinguished men.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the governor's party started for Hillsboro. The distance between the two places is 33 miles, and in order to get through in time relays of horses were stationed every few miles and the governor's carriage was kept moving at a lively rate the entire distance. The meeting here last night was held in the open air and it was by far the largest political demonstration held in Hillsboro, notwithstanding the fact that this is a republican town.

Gov. Campbell was very much fatigued when he reached Hillsboro, but his pluck and endurance seems to be inexhaustible.

The sight of his magnificent audience seemed to inspire him with fresh vim, and he made a vigorous speech of one hour's length.

The governor's speech was devoted mainly to the tariff and his attacks on the McKinley law were in his usual vigorous manner. His remarkable campaigning during the past two weeks has about worn out the newspaper contingent which has been following him, and the great wonder is how he can keep it up. He will fill four regular appointments today.

CANADA'S TROUBLE COMING.

Abbott's Cabinet on the Threshold of Dissolution.

Lord Stanley May Have to Call on the Liberals to Fix Up a New Ministry.

New York, Oct. 30.—The World's Ottawa special says: The government of Premier Abbott stands on the threshhold of dissolution, Abbot having informed Secretary Chapleau that he would accept the latter's resignation rather than yield to his demands.

If Chapleau should adhere to his threat and desert with his followers, the downfall of the Abbott administration would seem to be assured.

In case of such an event, Lord Stanley would call upon the Liberals to form a government which, owing to the equal division between the two political parties, could hardly be successfully carried on without a dissolution and an appeal to the electorate.

Is It Worth While to Ask?

Mr. Harrison has opened fire for a renominati-n. Gen. Boynton has opened his literary bureau. Boynton bolted Blaine in 1884 and now writes that Harrison is the real author of the reciprocity clause.

Where is Wm. Eleroy Curtis and his recent remarkable effusion, that he brought clear to Massillon, and then let out of the box. Wm. Eleroy Curtis says McKinley was the real father. Poor reciprocity. Is it illegitimate.—Massilonian.

"Rather" a Compliment.

McKinley is one of the most facile and sycophantic tools of monopoly in congress. He has no other record as a supposed statesman. On the stump, too, he is is so apparently dead in earnest in his subserviency that he is often suspected of being himself misled by his owners and masters. It is rather a compliment to him to say that he is not, but is only working so hard for the position and emoluments he gets out of them.—Sandusky Journal.

A Calamity Shrieker.

"I can count upon the ten fingers of my two hands the men who have added more to their wealth in the last ten years than has been added to the wealth of all the agriculturists in any state in the union."—Hon. Ben Butterworth (Rep.) in congress in 1890.

Butterworth is what the republicans would call a calamity shrieker.—Elyria Democrat.

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

For the Legislature in a Peck of Trouble.

The Columbus correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer has the following relative to the republican candidates in Lucas county, which will serve as an illustration as to what troubles the old men have on their mind:

In Lucas county two of the candidates for representatives are pronounced Foraker men, while one is supposed to be on the fence. Both factions have been endeavoring to get a pledge from him that would be a guarantee for his vote in the event of an election to the legislature. While the Foraker men claim to have an understanding with the candidate, they do not seem to be entirely satisfied with the agreement.

The Sherman men now claim that the Foraker contingent have threatened the gentleman in order to extort from him a pledge, going to the extent of serving notice that unless a solemn vow is forthcoming they will defeat him for the election.

The two nominees pledged to Foraker are ex-Representative Charles P. Griffin and C. L. Flickinger, ex-member of the state board of public works, who was defeated for renomination for that place through the efforts of Chairman Hahn, Major McKinley's manager, in the pending campaign.

The third man, who stands between the devil and the deep sea with a Foraker club on the one side and a Sherman icicle on the other, is Oliver P. Heller, the only farmer on the republican ticket for representative in Lucas county.

There is a suspicion that Mr. Heller has got onto the political way of doing things, and is just now playing both ends against the middle, and the prediction is made that unless he soon makes a choice between the senatorial candidates he will curse the day he ever entered the race and wish that he had engaged exclusively in harvesting his pumpkin crop.

Both Sherman and Foraker are after Mr. Heller and he will be hotly pursued until he indicates his future course as a member of the house, if he succeeds in gaining his election.

REED, THE JONAH.

The Moon-Faced Man from Maine Speaks His Piece.

Glaring Misstatements and Demogogic Buffoonery.

He Addresses a Large Audience at Memorial Hall—Glittering Generalities and Flippant Platitudes Instead of Logical Argument.

Reed, the Jonah whom Congressman Amos J. Cummings, the famous journalist, happily described "as the moon-faced man from Maine, despised by republicans and detested by democrats," spoke his piece at Memorial hall to a large audience last evening.

It required more than the average quantity of gall on the part of the executive committee to bring the "tyrant of the house" to Toledo. It was he who was chiefly instrumental in defeating the appropriation for Toledo's harbor improvements.

The czar is a good deal of a demagogue and not a little of a buffoon, but it is in the role of a Jonah that he excels.

He is a veritable hoodoo, so much so, in fact, that crowds turn out to see him just as they would a three-legged calf or a wild man from Borneo. Hence the packed house last evening.

Last fall he started on a political tour just as he has done this year, and the result was disastrous to his party. He spoke in ten strongly republican congressional districts, and each one of the ten,

It is a fact that will go down into history as one of the most remarkable episodes of the campaign of 1890, that he defeated ten republicans in ten straight republican districts. First he defeated two candidates in New York, then three in Massachusetts, and laid out McKinley himself here in Ohio. He went off on a tangent and knocked out Owens in Indiana; wandered into Minnesota and Wisconsin, and helped to elect Gear and Lafollette, the democratic candidates.

Flickinger was not to be seen at last evening's meeting. Flick ain't superstitious, but he refrains from inviting any sudden visitation from Providence prior to the election. The silver-haired orator knows more than some people give him credit for.

McConica and Rorick were there, but then you can't hoodoo a dead donkey. Those gentlemen know that they are beyond help, and like men in extreme pain desired to end the agony at one fell swoop.

Under these circumstances the democracy of Lucas county and of Ohio is to be congratulated on the advent of the man from Maine in the Buckeye state.

Messrs. Romeis, who acted as chairman of the meeting, Ashley, McConica and Rorick each sang their song before Reed arrived, as did also Gen. Alger of Detroit.

Chairman Tucker made one good point that democrats can heartily indorse. He advised manufacturers and business men generally to close at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of election day in order to give their employes an opportunity of voting.

Reed started out in his tirade by satirically referring to the disastrous effects of the tariff in the increase of Toledo's population to 100,000 in 1890, as against 13,000 in 1860.

Supposing it were true that Toledo's population had increased from 13,000 to 100,000 in 30 years, does Mr. Reed presume to say that Toledo's "infant" industry was encouraged or fostered by a high protective tariff?

Mr. Reed would have his audience believe that the McKinley and other high tariff bills were nothing more nor less than human incubators, from whence emerged the thousands of wingless angels that throng American homes and American schoolhouses.

And the audience sat there and listened and laughd at this idiotic rot.

Mr. Reed grew serious as his audience grew tired of his buffoonry, but he never reached the highest point of drivel until he became serious.

As an evidence of the prosperity of the country under the 30 years of republicans rule he repeated the old falsity of the increased wealth of the country.

The population of the country, he said, had doubled, while the wealth had increased five times over.

The statement analyzed is enough to eternally damn the republican party.

In 1860 the masses owned 78 per cent. of the wealth of the country and the favored few 22 per cent. In 1891, when the wealth has quintrupled, the masses own but 42 per cent. and the 25,000 millionaires 58 per cent. In other words, more than one-half of the entire wealth of the country is in the hands of 25,000 men, while the remainder is divided up between the 62,000,000 producers.

This is an illustration of the "equal distribution of wealth," as alluded to by Reed.

Competition, he says, helps business and booms labor. Competition keeps over a million workingmen on the highways as tramps.

Every republican shrieker who has spoken here this campaign seems anxious to find a justification for the desolate discontented state of the country.

Foraker said strikes were blessings in disguise for labor.

McKinley enunciated the startling statement that mortgages were evidences of prosperity and titles of nobility.

And now comes Reed with the statement "that discontent is the mother of progress."

Boils are said to be indicative of good health, but as a rule the average man prefers to have the boil on some other person's person than his own.

The American people can view the boils of political discontent, labor, strikes, and farm mortgages on the body politic of—say Europe, with considerable equanimity, but when it locates on the sensitive body of the American there is a howl.

It has been said that the Bee has misrepresented Mr. McKinley in this matter of titled farmers. McKinley, no doubt, had been conversing with Gen. Ashley anent his intercourse with European potentates. Every crowned head in Europe is in pawn—that is the crown is in hoc, up the spout, to use the parlance of the pavement.

Inasmuch as the potentates of Europe are the living representatives of nobility, and whereas said nobles have their crowns mortgaged, hence it follows that mortgages are titles of nobility. Q. E. D.

Reed tackled woolens, which McKinley failed to speak of. It is the old story of fools rushing in where angels fear to tread.

He did not tell the fact that the number of sheep in Ohio had decreased (Here is a chance for the Stroller to say something smart) over 50 per cent. during the 30 years of a high protective tariff, neither did he say, notwithstanding the increased tariff on wool, that wool has been reduced 6 cents a pound since the McKinley bill went into effect.

The speaker referred to the great and numerous cities which have sprung into existence during the 30 years of republican rule.

In face of the fact that a republican administration took the duty off every imported article used in the reconstruction of Chicago after the great fire in order to resurrect the city, Mr. Reed had the audacity to attribute the building of our cities to a high protective tariff.

Here is a sample of the czar's logic:

"If a mad dog gets loose in Toledo and bites nobody, then you would say he ain't mad."

If the dog is mad, he is mad whether he bites anyone or not, but Mr. Reed appears to take the view the Irishman did.

"That dog bit me," said Pat.

"The dog's mad," was the encouraging response.

"I don't see what he has to be mad about. It is me that ought to be mad, and I am."

Somebody had compared the high tariff to a mad dog, and Reed was trying to explain it away.

Mr. Reed is right, it is not the tariff that is mad, it is the American people, and the people of Ohio (D. V.) propose killing the dog that bit them on next Tuesday.

A LITTLE COMEDY.

Is the world the same, do you think, my dear?
As when we walked by the sea together,
And the white caps danced and the cliffs rose sheer,
And we were glad in the autumn weather.

You played at loving, that day, my dear—
How well you told me that tender story—
And I made answer with smile and tear,
Why the sky was flushed with the sunset's glory.

Now I shut my eyes, and I see, my dear,
That far-off path by the surging ocean—
I shut my eyes and I seem to hear
Your voice surmounting the tide's commotion.

It was but a comedy slight, my dear—
Why should its memory come to vex me?
Can it be I am longing that you should appear,
And play it again? My thoughts perplex me.

'Tis the sea and the shore that I miss, my dear,
The sea and the shore and the sunset's glory,
Or would these be nothing without you near
To murmur again that fond old story?

I know you now, but too well, my dear—
With your heart as light as a wind-blown feather,
Yet somehow the world seems cold and drear
Without your acting, this autumn weather.

An enthusiast on the subject states that each head of clover is composed of about 60 distinct flower tubes, and each of these contains sugar not to exceed the five hundredth part of a grain. The proboscis of the honey bee must, therefore, be inserted into 500 clover tubes before one grain of sugar can be obtained. There are 7,000 grains in a pound, and, as honey contains three-fourths of its weight of dry sugar, each pound of clover honey would represent the insertion of the proboscis in 2,500,000 clover heads.

There were 19,036 second-class tickets west-bound to 8,166 east-bound. It is evident that the northwest is getting from the east always and giving no people.

IN VAN WERT COUNTY

The Political Situation is Very Pleasing

To the Party Advocates of Lower Taxes.

A Happy People Who Know a Good Thing When They See It and Who Stick to It.

Van Wert, Oct. 29.—(Special)—Van Wert county has always been very close politically, but this year it may be safely counted upon for a larger democratic majority than last year, when it gave Cromley 552 more votes than Dan Ryan received.

Six or seven years ago the county was republican, and all the offices were filled by men who affiliated with that party, but time works changes and one of these changes in Van Wert has been a complete reversion of the political condition.

Now every office is filled by a democrat and the affairs of the county are in splendid shape. It is not in debt a dollar. Since democrats obtained control of affairs the county debt has been entirely wiped out, with the exception of the bonded ditch tax, which really is not a county charge, but rather more of a lien on the land owners.

Bonds to the extent of $25,000 are now being issued for the construction of a new jail, and this will be the only debt proper that the county owes. When the democrats assumed control considerable of the old court house debt was hanging over the county, but by splendid management and good financiering this has been wiped out.

The farmers of Van Wert county are satisfied with the condition of affairs, and will continue in power the party that has done so well.

As usual, however, the battle is raging furiously. The republicans are making a desperate effort to carry the county, and are using every imaginable scheme to estrange sufficient of the democratic vote to give them a majority. Money is being used quite freely for all purposes, and much of the engineering is being done by that astute gentleman, Mr. Urban H. Heston, clerk of the supreme court at Columbus.

Heston was sent down here by Bill Hahn to rescue the county, and was supplied by the things needful. He is a very modest, unassuming gentleman, but withal a very foxy politician and needs watching. His tact in this line was first demonstrated when he made the race for clerk of the supreme court. He was not very well known over the state and was opposed by Hon. W. S. Matthews, of Galion county, and other gentlemen who knew all the ropes of state politics. His candidacy was considered as a sort of joke by his opponents, but he had his campaign so well in hand that he was nominated on the third ballot.

Heston was made chairman of the republican committee here this year and immediately proceeded to the employment of his well known political methods. When the veteran republican ticket was tacked on to the ballot, Heston saw a chance to work one of his schemes. A petition was circulated among republicans and presented to the board of elections, asking that the county part of this veteran ticket be filled up. This permission was granted and then Heston proceeded to have the regular republican ticket printed as a part of the veteran ticket, hoping to receive in this way, a few additional votes for the republican nominees.

The scheme was very cute, but it did not work. The matter was brought before the board of elections by democrats but that board by a partisan tie vote refused to interfere. Judge Day then took a hand in the business by way of a proceeding in mandamus, and ordered the veteran republican county ticket knocked off.

Heston and his co-conspirators were, of course, very indignant, and the Columbus politician proceeded to get even with the democrats who balked his little plan, by having George Kohn, editor of the Times, arested for criminal libel.

He alleged that Kohn printed a fraudulent affidavit in his paper which reflected on his veracity. Kohn was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $100, and that is probably the last that will be heard of the case.

The people of both parties are, however, in a state of political frenzy, and plenty of money is being put up. The democrats are betting on 272 majority and the election of their entire county ticket, and from appearances, they will win their bets in a canter.

There is virtually no people's party in Van Wert county, although it is conceded that Seitz will receive probably 25 votes. The prohibition vote will be light and party lines will undoubtedly be closely drawn. There has never been more enthusiasm among the democrats of the county, and they are certain of victory.

There are many republican farmers in Van Wert county who will vote for Gov. Campbell, and if he does not have in the neighorhood of 500 majority, there is nothing in indications.

The local democratic leaders are working hard to increase the majority, and there is every prospect that they will succeed.

One of the fairest and best posted men in the city is O. A. Balyeat, an ardent republican worker. He said to the writer: "The democrats will carry the county this year, although by no such majority as they claim. We hope to pull a part of our party ticket through, and I think we will."

On the other hand, take the opinion of Mr. John Van Liew, clerk of the courts, and a member of the democratic committee:

"We will carry the county by more than 400 majority, and will elect our entire county ticket. I have never known democrats to be so wide awake and so enthusiastic. The boys are enthusiastic and absolute harmony prevails. Gov. Campbell will get many republican votes."

Ex-Senator G. M. Saltzgaber said:

"Campbell will have a much larger majority in Van Wert county than he had two years ago, and I believe he will be elected. We expect to elect our entire county ticket."

Geo. Kohn, editor of the Times, is of the opinion that the majority for democracy will be over 500.

"We have a splendid organization," said he, "and I do not see how we can do otherwise than elect our entire ticket and carry the county by a sweeping majority for Gov. Campbell. The farmers are getting to understand the fraud in a protective tariff system and are ready to rebuke the author of the McKinley bill at the polls."

Chas. L. McFadden, another prominent democrat, said: "Campbell wil not have less than 600 majority in the county."

There is no need of enumerating the opinions of every democrat in Van Wert, for they think alike on this subject. The democrats have a normal majority in the county and will win. That is all there is about that.

Investigation does not develop any opposition on the part of democrats to Shaw and Geyer, and these gentlemen will be fully up with their ticket. Conversation with a number of leading republicans inclines one to the belief that they only have hopes of electing one man on the county ticket, Robinson for commissioner, but unless conditions change here between now and election day, they will be buried beneath an increased democratic majority and their ticket beaten from head to tail.

That is the situation in the county of Van Wert.

IRONWORKERS' WAGES

Drops 20 Per Cent.—What an Employe of the Rolling Mill Says.

Among the applicants at the free employment office yesterday seeking work was a man who a few months ago left the Maumee rolling mills with five others and went to Anderson, Ind., under promise of constant employment and good wages. He formerly worked with the Toledo Bolt and Nut Works.

"When did you return to Toledo?" asked Superintendent Murphy.

"The Bolt and Nut works at Anderson," he replied, "closed down, and since I was out of a job I thought I'd come back to Toledo."

"What do you want to do?"

"Anything. I'll take work on the pipe line if I can get it."

"You don't mean to say that you ironworkers have been reduced to working for 1.50 a day?"

"We have that and glad to get it. They can talk about the McKinley bill all they want, but before the McKinley bill passed I was getting $18 a week. Since then I have worked for $10 a week, and here I am seeking work at $9 a week."

And yet there are workingmen in this city who have the audacity to get up before an intelligent Toledo audience and tell them that the McKinley bill has benefited labor.

HATE THE NORTHERN PEOPLE

Chilians Have no Use for Our Sailors.

One of the Crew of the Baltimore Writes an Interesting Letter on the State of Affairs in Chili.

Baltimore, Oct. 30.—The following is an extract from a private letter received in this city yesterday from Mr. H. C. Jarrett, jr., one of the crew of the United Sates steamship Baltimore, at Valparaiso, September 19. Mr. Jarrett is the nephew of the famous theatrical manager of that name, and the son of A. Bond Jarrett, of this city:

"Valparaiso, Chili, Sept. 19, 1891.—Everything is quiet here, and the new government has been formed and proclaimed, and, O Lord, how they do hate an American. They celebrated their independence on the 16th, and at night gave a torchlight procession, and as they came by the English, French and German fleets, they cheered and 'viva'd', but when they steamed past the old Baltimore you could almost hear your heart beat; and the reason, I think, is this: Apart from the Itata affair the—or rather what at that time was the—oppositionists, say that the United States minister misrepresented them to our government, and the consequence was our government would not recognize them as belligerents, and I am afraid that the high estimation that always existed of us in a Chilian's imagination is gone.

"Two of the men who were shot with me in the steam launch have recovered and are walking around decks, but poor McBride, the one who was running the engine and got shot in the lungs, died two days later and we buried him at sea, 60 miles off Melenda, where we took some refugees.

"I have since learned that English and French launches had several killed and wounded as well as ours. We expect to coal to-morrow and leave for Callao, where we will be given liberty, as it is considered too dangerous here, as the captain fears that the people would rise up and mob the men."

QUAY WANTS A CHARACTER.

He Threatens Libel Suits on a Large Scale.

Whatever Else the Oily Senator Is Charged With He Thinks He Can Clear Himself from Bardsleyism.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 30.—Senator Quay will to-day enter suit against the Pittsburg Post for $100,000 libel. He will also sue the writing editor and proprietors for criminal libel.

Chairman Kerr, of the democratic state committee, will also be sued for criminal libel, and all parties will be arrested as soon as possible.

The senator's suit is the result of the publication of a photographic cut in the democratic newspapers which was done to connect him with Bardsley's methods.

The head lines in all the papers were very libelous in the eyes of the senator's attorneys. The material, it is claimed, was sent out by Chairman Kerr, of the democratic state committee, and that is the cause of the suit against him.

TOILET HINTS.

A clear complexion is usually the result of health—not of cosmetics.

Cosmetics can be used in moderation to advantage, but they are never so perfect as the bloom which good health imparts.

A clar complexion is usually the result of good circulation, and good circulation is the steady flow of the blood through the system.

When the blood is sluggish and the mind depressed nothing is so beneficial as a pure medicinal stimulant, and nothing so thoroughly stimulates the circulation or keeps it in regular and perfect order as pure whiskey.

While there are many so-called whiskeys there is only one that is admitted to be a purely medicinal one; namely, Duffy's Pure Malt.

Druggists and grocers may try to argue to the contrary because they make more money on cheap and inferior goods, but it is always best to bear in mind that the one which has been tested, tried and proven by experience is the only certain one.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK.

"A Social Anticipation" Translated for American Readers.

"The Faith Doctor" in Neat Dress—Paper Covered Novels—Some November Verse—Previtles.

Dr. Theodor Herdzka is a Viennese economist, from whose study of the question has resulted a work entitled "Freeland, a Social Anticipation," which has been called the German "Looking Backward." The rapid sale of the work in German countries carries forward the semblance to Bellamy's great literary success. The theories evolved in "Freeland" caused numbers in the larger towns of Austria and Germany to organize local societies for making practical test of the book theories. These local societies have now been united into an International Freeland society, which held its first annual meeting in the Austrian capital March last. It was then announced that a suitable tract of land in British East Africa had been placed at the disposal of the society, and hope was expressed that the formation of a "Freeland Colony" would not be long delayed. Indeed, one incentive for the translation of the work was the hope that an English edition might bring English speaking members into the society. In the author's preface an outline is given to prove that his ideas of the reconstruction of social conditions are based on scientific principles. The book is well worthy perusal and a close study, especially by those who were interested in Bellamy's plan. This is like with a difference. Translated by Arthur Ransom an published in this country by Appleton & Co., N. Y.

While Dr. Edward Eggleston's "Faith Doctor" was being published as the leading serial in "The Century," the opinion was expressed in this column that it was far and away the best story he has written. Now that it is offered in book form this opinion is confirmed, and one is tempted to say also that it is "the" American novel of the year. An American story it is in every sense of the word, although Dr. Eggleston's familiar Hoosier characters do not appear, but he essays, as he says in his preface, "to depict phases of the complex society of the metropolis." He succeeds in this, as he succeeds in his other purpose, that of holding up in the light of common sense, with not unkindly touches of ridicule, certain prevailing "fads" of "aerial therapeutics." Phillida (and, by the way, we are not pleased to learn the accent, according to Dr. Eggleston, is on the first syllable) and Miss Bowyer, different as they are in every way, are both true types of believers in the semi-miracles of the "cure" system which the one follows with highest, the other with basest, motive. Millard, a little worldly and apparently superficial, develops into a man of strength and character, a most lovable lover. Philip's ultimate heroism may have been predicated from the beginning, but Millard's nobleness surprises no less than it delights. Dr. Eggleston's story needed only one thing to make it a treasure in any home library, and this the publishers, D. Appleton & Co., New York, have furnished in bringing the story out in book form, beautifully printed in clear type, upon tinted paper, well bound in cloth, with specially illustrated cover. For sale by Brown, Eager & Hull.

"Eli Perkins' Thirty Years of Wit and Reminiscences of Witty, Wise and Eloquent Men, by Melville D. Landon (Eli Perkins.)" This is the title page of a handsome new volume from Cassell's publishing house. It may strike the critical reader as a trifle egotistic, but he will soon discover by the table of contents and the preface that the reminiscences are the greater part of the work. Thanks are expressed to the famous men of wit, by name, who have told Mr. Landon stories worth repeating. He classes his collection as "the brightest sayings of the Nineteenth century," and the object of his book is "to transmit them to posterity."

As the specimens of political satire given are Mr. Landon's own, and the dissertations on wit and humor are illustrated by quotations from Eli Perkins, posterity would not have been defrauded if the volume had been greatly reduced in size. The book is a bumptious, clumsy, egotistic attempt to be very funny.

In Paper Covers.

"Within Sound of the Weir," No. 80 in Cassell's Sunshine series, is one of the older-fashioned sort of novels, and a very good one of its kind. The plot is so complicated that its working out becomes intensely interesting. The characters are some of them very original and all are well drawn. It is a good story.

In the same series "The Cruel City," after the Russian of Dimitry Grigarovitch, introduces to American readers another novelist whose work is to be commended. Earnest De Lancey Pierson writes the introduction in which he tells us that M. Grigarovitch is now over 70 years old, has written many novels, beginning his twenties, is still an active man of affairs in St. Petersburg, director of a bank, etc. "The Cruel City" is St. Petersburg, and the story is of a young, vain, foolish country couple, who spent 3,000 roubles, all they had, trying to get a genteel position there, were robbed by all their city relatives, and finally, after a bitter experience of the cruel side of city life, went back contented to humble and more honorable life in the province. The tone of the book is healthy, and the unraveling of its incidents interesting throughout.

In No. 83 of this series, "The Fatal Request," we have another of the old-time style novels, a mysterious murder, a plot within a plot, blood money, wax impressions of a key-hole, and a pretty love story running through this sombre woof with its bright thread. It is an English story, the scenes laid in Dulwich and Hampstead, and the story is well told. The writer is A. L. Harris, author of "Mine Own Familiar Friend."

Cassell's Sunshine series is issued semi-monthly; paper covers; 50 cents a number; $12 per year. The above books are for sale in Toledo by Brown, Eager & Hull.

If nothing else indicated our growing interest in Russian affairs the increased number of Russian novels, translated into the English tongue, would show it. One of the latest of these, and a very good specimen, is "A Russian Priest," translated for the Cassell company, and published in their Sunshine series. It seems the country priest in Russia must choose between sharing the poverty and hardships of the peasant's life, or grow rich by robbing this already and always robbed class. Cyril Obnovlienski, the hero of this story, chose the harder part. How much it cost him the story tells. Its incidents are very moving, and in that part which deals with the village famine is a narration of present interest. The element of an unsympathetic wife and a sympathetic somebody-else is not wanting. It never is in a Russian story.

"One Reason Why," a late number in Appleton's Town and Country Library, written by Beatrice Whitby, contains some skillful delineation of character, some contrasts, and some fine touches of pathos. She portrays the dependent, seemingly innocent, but deep and scheming woman and the firm, strong, independent womanly character, in contrast. The men and children necessary to the plot are secondary in consideration, but the whole evolvement is cleverly managed and the story is entertaining and well worthy the critic's attention.

"Wilworth, the Wanderer or the Man from Saturn" is a wierd imaginative tale as its title indicates. It is written by C. C. Dail and published by J. S. Ogilvie, New York.

"By Right not Law" is one of the Cassell Sunshine series, and the finale satisfactorily evolved by the aid of hypnotism. The moral question involved may not be decided by the reader as the author, R. H. Sherard, apparently decides it, this question being whether a man may "inherit" the money of which his great-grandfather was robbed, with accumulated interest, by taking possession of it from the owner the law recognizes, and who is a descendant of the robber. It is a very curious and interesting story.

The Shadow of Shame, a Frenchy novel by Austyn Granville, is handsomely printed in strong paper covers, by Charles H. Sergel & Co., Chicago. Mr. Granville, who, by the way, is a clever writer of short stories, is a cousin of Rider Haggard. His heroine, Julie de Marguerites, is sketched after a living model, a relative of the Granville family, and it adds to the interest of the stirring recital to know there is fact for foundation for it. The book also performs a mission in its exposure of the status of the marriage laws of France and its denunciation of the custom of sending young messenger boys into questionable places, where they become accustomed to the sight of vice. Price 50 cents, in paper covers.

Notes and Comments.

Joe Jefferson as Dr. Pangloss in the "Heir at Law" is the full-page picture in the current number of Harper's Weekly. Here are three stanzas of poetry from the same issue:

The long boughs of the oak-tree
That stands across the way
Are waving, waving, waving,
While rainy winds are raving
At turning leaves to-day.

The drops strike madly, wildly,
Borne on the autumn wind;
And grenadiers of jimson
And dog-weed flowering crimson
They shivering leave behind.

The sheet rain driving onward
Bends everything before,
And each stalk sadly falling
To me it seems is calling
That summer is no more.

When lines like those are accepted and printed in the Weekly, one wonders what kind of poetry went into the waste basket.

It would seem that poems of months, are likely to find place in periodicals, where verses of the same degree of merit on other topics would go into the waste basket. In Scribner we have "In November" by Duncan Campbell Scott (significant names for a poet) the first quartrain of which runs:

The ruddy sunset lies
Banked along the west,
In flocks with sweep and rise
The birds are going to rest.

What birds sweep and rise in flocks and then go to rest so late in November as is betokened by the last quartrain, a student of nature might be glad to know. The "last one" referred to is this:

The winter's loose somewhere;
Gathering snow for a fight;
From the feel of the air
I think it will freeze to-night.

Thomas Wentworth Higginson has commenced a series: "Glimpses of Authors," in the new Boston semi-monthly, "Brains." The first one appears in number 7, and is a pleasant sketch of Lowell. A New York correspondent of the same paper tells the doubtful news that ex-President Cleveland is writing a constitutional history of the United States.

Among the many readable papers in the November number of the "Church at Home and Abroad" are "Missionaries' Wives" (editorial); "Across Continents and Ocean," by J. Gillespie, D. D.; "Missionary Perspective of South America," "Chili's Great Need," "The Canadian Cruisers;" "In the British Pews," by H. M. Booth, D. D., and "A Life Worth Living," by Dr. J. H. Shedd. The magazine contains monthly a fund of information on all church topics and entertaining news from all parts of the world. The missionary and the commercial pioneer are hand in hand in the remote parts of the earth, and the resident mission worker can tell reliable stories of the lives of the people that we cannot get from any other source. The magazine is attractive in appearance and costs $1 a year. Published by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, New York.

The Monthly Sanitary Record, published by the state sanitary board, reprints an exhaustive paper on "Diphtheria:" under the head "Diphtheria contracted from Animals" some statements are made that should be widely copied.

Littell's Living Age for the week October 24 gives first place to "Lowell and His Poetry," from Sidney Low in the Fornnightly Review. It is a discriminating paper warm with admiration and praise. Archibald Forbes' "War Correspondent's Reminiscences" is another readable paper. Very little that is worthy preservation in English contemporary literature get away from the editors of the Living Age in their weekly review.

Prof. W. O. Atwater's paper on "The Food Supply of the Future" in the November Century is being widely noticed.

Mossrs. Dodd, Mead & Company will publish a new series especially for girls and women. Three volumes in the "Portia Series," as it is called after Shakespeare's model of feminine knowledge and discretion, appear this autumn. They are: "Chats with Girls on Self-Culture," by Eliza Chester, which the publishers believe to be a book of uncommon charm and excellence; "Physical Development and Exercise for Women," by Dr. Mary Taylor Bissell, and "The Art of Entertaining," by Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood. Other volumes in this series are in preparation.

Notwithstanding the czar's promise to Countess Leo Tolstoi to have the imperial censor deal more leniently with her husband's writings, the book Conversations with and Criticisms of Tolstoi, published by R. Lowenfeld in Germany, has been suppressed in Russia.

Robert Louis Stevenson starts the hero of "The Wrecker," in the November Scribner, on his adventurous voyage among the South Sea islands, where Mr. Stevenson recently cruised for several years.

William George Jordan, the former editor of Book Chat, and for the past three years managing editor of Current Literature, has resigned the latter position to go on the lecture platform. Mr. Jordan was born in New York 27 years ago, and has been in his short but varied existence, a schoolteacher, an editor and a lecturer.

That popular parlor farce, The Albany Depot, by W. D. Howells, has just been issued in separate book form by Harper & Brothers. The volume is handsomely illustrated, and is in every way an attractive one. It is the first of a series of modern classics to be published under the collective name of "Harper's Black and White Series."

The great Dr. Boerhaave left three directions for preserving the health—keep the feet warm, the head cool, and the bowels open. Had he practiced in our day, he might have added: and purify the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla; for he certainly would consider it the best.

CLOCKWORK FOR TELEPHONES.

The present system of charges for the use of telephones by annual subscription is by many considered unjust, inasmuch as some subscribers speak often and much, whereas others use the telephone only occasionally.

In some German telephone offices an electrically driven clock is attached to each telephone, which will work as long as the telephone is off the hook, and stops directly it is replaced. The service is charged for according to the time recorded.

It is claimed for this system that unnecessary conversations are prevented; that those that take place are limited to reasonable length, and the useful efficiency of the whole is increased.

One of the longest chutes in the world is located at a logging camp at Clifton, Ore. It is nearly three-quarters of a mile long, and cost $60,000. The bottom is shod with railroad iron, and it takes a log 20 seconds to make the descent to the water, which at times will be thrown to a height of 200 feet.

COME TO STAY.

The terribly aggravated form of influenza, which physicians on the continent of Europe designate as "la grippe," seems to have effected a permanent lodgment this side the Atlantic. It makes its reappearance as soon as the cool weather sets in, and not infrequently during the summer months. In the spring it is rampant. Nothing checks its first attack, or so effectually counteracts its subsequent ravages, as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The fortifying, invigorating influence of that beneficent tonic protects the system against the dangers which beset a feeble physique and a weakly constitution consequent upon abrupt transitions of temperature. It diffuses a genial warmth through the diaphragm, which is the best corrective or preventive of a chill, and is a means of neutralizing the effect of exposure in damp or rigorous weather. In dyspepsia, liver complaint, costiveness, rheumatism, malarial and kidney troubles it is never resorted to without good results.

CATARRH THE CAUSE

OF A HOST OF DISEASES.

Head, Throat, Lungs, Stomach—All Subject to Catarrh.

What the Medical Profession Say.

If any medical authority were asked to name the disease which most rarely destroys life he probably would name catarrh. But, were he further asked to name the disease which sets up in the system oftenest diseases which do destroy life he would be obliged to again name catarrh. Catarrh, while it remains simply catarrh, very rarely destroys a life, although it makes life miserable; but catarrh surely leads to a host of diseases, many of which are fatal to life. The following list of diseases, too well known in this country, are each and all simply catarrh affecting different organs of the body: Sore eyes, deafness, running ears, dicharge from the nose, sore mouth and throat, bronchitis, hoarseness, consumption, enlarged tonsils, quinsy, dyspepsia, chronic diarrhoea and dysentery are each thought by most people to be essentially different diseases; but the truth is they are catarrh of the mucous lining of the various organs. A medicine that is applicable to any one of the above list of diseases is applicable to them all, as each one has for its cause the same condition. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, and the remedy that will cure it in one organ of the body will also cure it in any other organ.

In the majority of cases (especially those of less than two years' duration), catarrh can be cured in a few weeks by the proper use of Pe-ru-na. Some cases are cured by six bottles, others by four, and we have not a few testimonials who have professed a cure from even one bottle of this remedy. Where a case of catarrh has existed for five or ten years a permanent cure cannot be reasonably hoped for in less than three or four months, and in some rare cases the continued use of Pe-ru-na for one year has been necessary to effect a permanent cure. But, unless the case is very old or complicated, a prompt and lasting cure is sure.

The following case, given in the language of the patient, is a fair illustration of the effect of Pe-ru-na in chronic catarrh:

"Kyle, Texas, March 21, 1891.

"For ten years I have been a sufferer of that dreadful disease, chronic catarrh. The doctors all pronounced my case to be catarrh in its worst form. I took many kinds of treatment to no avail. I have tried every catarrh cure, but nothing seemed to benefit me in the least. I lost all confidence in medicine. At last I heard of Pe-ru-na. I commenced to use it, and am now entirely rid of all catarrhal symptoms. I would give ten dollars a bottle for Pe-ru-na rather than be without it. It has restored me to perfect health. MRS. M. J. TAMBLIN."

It would be difficult to describe a worse case to cure than the above. The length of time it had run, the fact that it had continually grown worse, and the further fact that it had already developed the symptoms of the dry, or atrophic, stage of catarrh, combine to make this a very remarkable cure, quite impossible to be made with the ordinary treatment. The cure was effected by Pe-ru-na alone, and no spray, gargle or inhalent was used. Pe-ru-na, with directions for use, can be had at most drug stores.

Anyone desiring further particulars are at liberty to write Mrs. Tamblin, who will cheerfully answer any questions.

Those desiring to become well informed as to the nature and cure of catarrhal diseases should send for The Family Physician, No. 2. Sent free by The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, O.

UNREWARDED GENEROSITY.

The recent death of the distinguished peeress, the Marquise de Talleyrand-Perigord, whose son married an American, Mrs. Adele Stevens, revives stories of her beauty. It was her habit to drive to balls in an enormous landau with many windows, and to prevent disarrangement of her marvelous toilets she always stood in her carriage.

She had a remarkably small foot, but in this respect a rival beauty, Baroness de Vatry, competed closely with her. It is related that one evening, entering a ball-room, she discovered that she had lost one of her satin slippers when descending from the carriage.

Seating herself next to the Baroness de Vatry, the marquise said:

"I cannot dance without a slipper."

"Never mind," said Mme. de Vatry, with a little malice; "I shall lend you one of mine; I think it will fit you."

"Thank you, but I shall put it on over the slipper that remains."

And she did, to the horror of her obliging friend.

A candle 4 feet 3 inches high and 5 inches diameter was lighted in a St. John store recently to afford an opportunity for guessing how long it would burn. The time was 314 hours 31 minutes and 10 seconds, and the prize guesser came within 21 minutes of it.

LOOK AT THIS.

Are these not healthy and bright children Their appearance does not misrepresent them; they are both healthy and bright. They are the son and daughter of Mr. J. P. Wiley of Dorchester, Mass., and he has an interesting story to tell in regard to them. The story is as follows:

"In 1885 my wife accompanied by my little boy, at that time 11 months old, was visiting relatives in Scranton, Penna. The little fellow was suffering untold agony cutting his teeth. My wife was told by Dr. Hand to use Teething Lotion. The effect was magical. It did not stupefy the child, as most remedies of this character do; it simply soothed the pain of the burning and aching gums. I might write a volume, had I the time, praising this remedy, and then not express my feelings or do it justice, it is simply marvelous. After her return to Boston she wanted another bottle, but I found that it was unknown in this city. I corresponded with Dr. Hand, and received in reply a sample of each of his remedies. I used them on both my children, recommended them to all my friends, and have yet to find the person who, after using the remedies, especially Teething Lotion and Cole's Cure, that could not praise them. People may say, and have said to me: 'Oh, there must be something in that Teething Lotion that affects a child's brain.' In reply to this I will say I have two children, a boy and girl, who have been treated with Teething Lotion since time of beginning to end of teething, and I challenge any person to furnish two with as happy, clearer brains. I cheerfully recommend them to parents who love their little ones."

A little book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, or sample bottle, will be sent to any one in the land, FREE.

And all effects of
ABUSES, EXCESSES, IMPROPER LIFE, ETC.,

Nervous Debility.

Those suffering from Nervous Debility, the symptoms of which are a dull distressed mind, which unfits them for performing business and social duties; make happy marriage impossible, distress the action of the heart, causing flushes of heat, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, cowardice, fear, dreams, short breathings, melancholy, tire easily of company and have a preference to be alone; feeling as tired in the morning as when retiring; lost manhood, white bone deposits in the urine, nervousness, trembling, confusion of thoughts, watery and weak eyes, dyspepsia, constipation, paleness, pain and weakness in the limbs, etc., should consult us immediately and be restored to health. By a wise course of treatment, adapted to your age, sex and physical condition, the vigor of your system can be raised, the tendency to impure thoughts removed, and the strength and vigor of health restored to the debilitated organs.

Organal Weakness

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affliction which renders life a burden and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by victims of improper indulgence. The most chaste must acknowledge that the passions are the great magnet by which the whole world is attracted. Destroy them and what have we? Man is no longer interested in the opposite sex; the interchange of that blissful repose which attracts and interests the whole world, exists no longer; man ceases to be what God made him: the world is no longer interesting to him, and remorse and disappointment are his constant companions. We have devoted years to the study of the best methods of treating the various forms in which this disease manifests itself. We treat every case on its own merits; and thousands to-day join in thanking us for the new lease of life and happiness our skill has opened up to them.

Marriage.

Married persons or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualifications, speedily relieved. He who places himself under our care may confide in our honor as gentlemen, and confidently rely on our skill as Physicians. We have had many years experience in hospitals and private practice and are graduates of the most eminent Medical Colleges of the U. S.

Young Men who have become victims of SOLITARY VICE—that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave, thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with full confidence.

We address all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for business, study, society or marriage.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market opening firmer, improving. Corn strong. Liverpool wheat steady at advance of 1-2 pence. Corn steady.

Liverpool received in past six days 547,000 bu wheat, of which 251,000 was American; and 244,000 of corn.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,310617 bu compared with 505,187 bu on the same day last year.

The Visible Supply.—January 8, 1887, the visible supply of wheat was 63,345,689 bu. In October preceding the price had been as low as 75c for No. 2 but at above date was 83c.

The Price of Rye.—No. 2 rye sold here this morning at 94c for 56 pounds, which is equal to $1 00 per bu. for No. 2 wheat, but as rye is also higher than wheat in Germany, we suppose we can stand it if they can. We have exported freely considering our surplus, and it gives strong markets.

The San Francisco Commercial News estimates the wheat crop of California at 33,000,000 bushels to 36,000,000 bushels.

The Russian Prohibition.—London, Oct. 29.—The English board of agriculture has received information which is regarded as convincing of an intention on the part of Russia to prohibit the exportation of wheat. The St. Petersburg correspondent of the News says that the prohibitory decree was postponed on the advice of M. Vishnegradsky, the Russian finance minister, who feared that it would jeopardize the new Russian loan, but that the decree has been sent to Copenhagen for the Czar's signature and will probably be issued after Nov. 5.

The rate on corn, lake and rail, from Chicago to New England points will be advanced from 10c to 11c per bushel on Nov. 6.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 805,730 bus. in excess of the corresponding Friday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were 71,614 bus. of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 240,000 bus.

English markets as quoted herein are firm and some what higher for wheat and corn.

English Prices.

Red winter wheat in Liverpool, New York standard, is quoted this a. m. at $1 21 3-8 per bus., or equal to that price. The cheapest water freight now is $1 93 3-8 bus., leaving $1 02. Taking into account that our No. 2 soft wheat is worth 3c to 5c more than the seaboard standard, our prices are low enough.

The Price of Rye.

No. 2 rye for November sold here this morning at 94c, which equals $1 00 for No. 2 wheat, but as the price of rye in Germany is above wheat, perhaps we can stand it if they can.

Russian Prohibition.

New York is altogether too previous with her news items. Telegrams were on our exchange yesterday and day before stating that the order prohibiting the export of all kinds of grain had positively been issued, but there is no confirmation of it yet. There is, however, a cable dispatch, printed herein, stating that the order is to be issued, to take effect November 5. It is just as uncertain as it ever was.

This prohibition question and the dry weather over the wheat belt are now about the only bull elements in the deal. That is to say they represent about all that can be relied upon to send up prices. On the other hand the receipts, the accumulations, the export movement, all considered together, are of a bearish nature.

The markets for wheat in this country opened lower and continued weak and declining during the session. The two bull elements we have referred to seem to have lost their grip and are temporarily lost sight of. Foreign markets close higher. Antwerp and Paris are up 1c to 2c; Berlin shade higher. On the call November wheat sold at 97 3-4c; December at 99 1-2c to 99 3-8c and 99 1-2c. After the call December sold at 99 3-8c and closed at 98 1-2c asked. THE ROBISONS THIS TIME.

Judge Pugsley Dissolves the Nebraska Avenue Injunction.

The Robisons are smiling to-day.

The wind is blowing their way for a minute.

Judge Pugsley yesterday dissolved the injunction restraining them from constructing a second track in Nebraska avenue between Hong and Hawley streets. The preliminary injunction was applied for by Solicitor Read on behalf of the city, on the grounds that the ordinance permitted of only one track, and that consent of property owners had been obtained for one track.

The Robison set up that the track being laid was to be used as a switch.

ASHLEY'S BREAK.

His Prediction that the Legislature Will Be Democratic.

The Statement Creates Considerable of a Sensation Among the Followers of McKinleyism.

Ex-Gov. Ashley in his speech at Memorial hall last evening, created something of a sensation by stating that he was afraid the legislature was going democratic.

"I am certain," he said, "of McKinley's election. I am just as certain as the sun rolls round next Tuesday, but I am afraid for the legislature."

Mr. Ashley has just returned from Williams county and other points in northwestern Ohio, and knows whereof he speaks. It is said this morning that Mr. Ashley could have told his audience much more than he did. He could have told them that the republican counties of northwestern Ohio would not only send democratic representatives to the legislature, but that they would go overwhelmingly for Campbell and tariff reform.

James M. returned home panic stricken, and his explosion at Memorial hall was only a symptom of the hysterical condition of his mind.

There is not a doubt but that next Tuesday will see a great victory won for commercial liberty.

Let every democrat do his duty and James E. Campbell and the whole democratic ticket will be elected by 20,000. It is a solemn and sacred duty that devolves upon every democrat, to vote his ticket and vote it straight. Go to the polls early and see to it that every democrat records his vote.

Do this and victory is ours.

ARRESTED IN FINDLAY.

Albert Manahan Again Behind the Bars.

A Charge of Burglary Against Him at Bowling Green to Which He Must Answer.

Findlay, O., Oct. 30.—(Special)—At about 2 o'clock this morning Officers Burns and Shaner caught a much wanted crook by the name of Albert Manahan, near the Sherman house.

He stole a small sum of money from a farmer by the name of J. J. Bibler, west of the city, last evening.

The police were notified to look out for him. He was sighted by the above officers and started to run, but was captured after receiving a shot in his left shoulder from one of the officers' revolvers.

He is wanted also at Bowling Green on the charge of burglary, and is out on $500 bail.

RESORTING TO FORGERY.

The Latest Republican Lie Exploded.

The Kansas "Comrade" Telegram Was a Fake.

No Such Men as Are Alleged to Have Sent the Message Belong to the Grand Army of the Republic.

Tiffin, O., Oct. 30.—(Special)—When McKinley was delivering an address at Akron on the 12th inst. he read what purported to be a telegram from Ellsworth, Ks., containing a greeting from 7,000 old soldiers. This was heralded over the state for the purpose of influencing the soldier vote. The matter came to the attention of Capt. Ed Lepper, of this city, who was indignant and proceeded to write a scathing letter to the two men whose names were signed to the dispatch. Yesterday the letter was returned to him with the information that there was no such men living in that vicinity, showing that the telegram was a forgery pure and simple. The republican cause must indeed be in a precarious condition when McKinley is compelled to resort to forgery to bolster up his waning strength.

It goes to show that the republicans will resort to anything to hoodwink the people into voting to perpetuate the rotten old organization in power.

Capt. Lepper's letter is a scorcher and is as follows:

Tiffin, O., October 13, 1891.

Messrs. Hillyers and Spencer, Ellsworth, Ks.:

Sirs—The following clipping I cut from the Toledo Commercial of this date:

Ellsworth, Ks., October 9, 1891.

To Major McKinley:

Dear Comrade—Seven thousand old comrades, at their state reunion, send you greeting and bid you God-speed for governorship of Ohio.

(Signed) A. C. HILLYERS,
E. F. SPENCER,
Commanders.

Permit me to return it to you and at the same time to express the belief that the "seven thousand old comrades" referred to consisted chiefly of three political shysters, viz.: Hillyers and Spencer and some lunatic unnamed who gulled you into violating one of the fundamental laws of our order. I cannot believe that seven thousand of the old comrades would dishonor themselves by engaging in a proceeding that could only convict them of an act that ought to expel them from the G. A. R. organization.

You ought to have known, if the "seven thousand" did not, that Gov. Campbell was a comrade, as well as Major McKinley, and that Campbell and McKinley are comrades in the true sense of the word. Both were good and loyal soldiers and are good and loyal friends to-day, and Major McKinley can but despise your action as he ought, knowing as he does that you perjure yourselves and stand convicted of violating your word and your honor.

Your course but tends to drag the G. A. R. organization down to the dirty level of politics where it once was dishonored and respected by no one. The years of earnest effort on the part of honest, true, brave and loyal soldiers, spent to make our order the most glorious, grand and honored among men, is to be wasted, blighted and made all in vain by just such demagogues as you, and dissension, dissatisfaction and discord sown within our ranks to the end that degradation and dissolution must come to it. These are plain words but truthful ones. Let the politician play the fool but don't destroy our dear old order. Within the circle of our encampments let peace, good will and harmony prevail. Religion and politics are subjects that ought to interest every good citizen, but the church and the hustings, and not the post and the campfire, are the places to discuss them. If I have spoken harshly I feel that my justification lies in the heinousness of the offense.

Very truly yours,
EDWARD LEPPER.

SWEPT BY FOREST FIRES.

The Mountains in the South Are Ablaze.

Farmers in the West in Danger of Losing Their Lives While Battling with the Conflagration.

Sheffield, Ala., Oct. 30.—The mountains to the south of here are being swept by fores[illegible] everything and a stiff breeze makes it impossible to check the flames which are spreading in every direction. The citizens are fighting them, but without effect.

Fences are being destroyed and some few houses have been burned. The edge of the mountains have been reached and in some places the same fields in the valley are burning. Only one cotton field so far is reported destroyed.

A dispatch states that the fire has crossed Bear Creek, 35 miles south and is destroying everything in its path. News from Rusellville says the fire is sweeping over the mountains to the southwest. The only hope for a speedy checking of the flames is rain and there is no sign of that at present.

In Nebraska.

Brewster, Neb., Oct. 30.—A disastrous prairie fire is raging in this county and thousands of acres have been burned over. Several ranchmen have lost their entire hay crop, but so far no buildings have been destroyed. The fire is entirely beyond the control of the settlers.

WILL BE AN ITALIAN.

Leo's Successor Will Not Be an American.

The Gossip About Cardinal Gibbons Does Not Even Excite Interest in Rome.

Rome, Oct. 30.—Prominent ecclesiasties who have been interviewed on the subject of the possible election of Cardinal Gibbons of America to the papal chair declined to talk on the matter, but received the suggestion with evident incredulity, and some with a smile.

There is not the slightest doubt here that an Italian will be elected to succeed Leo XIII., and the queries from America in regard to Gibbons have not excited serious interest.

It is known to be the substantially universal belief of Catholic prelates in Italy that if the pope is to remain he must be an Italian, as otherwise the pope's position would be much more precarious than it is.

So far as the sentiments of the Sacred college are permitted to escape to public knowledge, there seems to be ground for the belief that Cardinal Archbishop San Felice of Naples is the coming man.

The Seeboeck Concert to-night is a public concert and not invitational.

RAILWAY AFFAIRS.

Important Meeting of the Lumber Committee.

The Boys Remember Superintendent Rockwell—C., H. & D. Officials Have a Narrow Escape—B. & O. Inspection.

The lumber committee of the Central Traffic association held an interesting and important meeting at the Boody house yesterday.

Rates on lumber from Sandusky to the Pittsburg territory were advanced to the Pittsburg rate, which is 9 cents, an increase of one cent.

Rates were reduced from Toledo to the above points, from 10 to 9 cents. This was prompted by the Wheeling & Lake Erie, on the strength of a new short line distance from Toledo to Wheeling by its Wheeling extension.

The Wheeling & Lake Erie also recommended a reduction in salt rates from 25 cents per barrel to 20 cents per barrel from Toledo, Huron and Sandusky.

The following were present: Frank Janes, Pennsylvania company; R. E. Billings, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern; Ford Woods, Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati & St. Louis; W. A. Mills, Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo; C. C. Gridley, Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo; H. Fitch, Ohio Central lines; H. J. Booth, Wheeling & Lake Erie; W. H. Bennett, Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan; C. T. Wight, Baltimore & Ohio; A. Patrirchi, Flint & Pere Marquette, and J. M. Steenberg, Pennsylvania company.

Shook Up the Officials.

The officials of the C., H. & D. had an experience yesterday that they no doubt will remember for some time to come and may possibly, in an indirect manner, be of some benefit to the traveling public.

Several days ago a party, consisting of President M. D. Woodford, Superintendent Neilson and fourteen other officials of the road, left Toledo on a general tour of inspection of the system, as was announced in the Bee at the time. Yesterday they were running over the Dayton & Ironton road, recently purchased by the C., H. & D. As the train was pulling into Boyle Junction, a freight train ran into the rear which shook up the whole train at a lively rate.

The whole party was seated in the observation car, ahead of the engine, when the crash came. Some jumped and received slight bruises, but fortunately no one was seriously injured. The observation inspection will be delayed for some time.

Remembered the Superintendent.

Superintendent Rockwell, of the Hocking Valley, is held in the highest esteem by all who know him, especially so by the employes and officials of the road, and his resignation is a disappointment to all. Last night about 40 of the boys, officials and shop employes called at Mr. Rockwell's residence in Columbus and took him completely by surprise. In a neat and appropriate speech Solicitor C. O. Hunter presented Mr. Rockwell with an elegant solid silver tea set as a slight token of their everlasting friendship. Mr. Rockwell was overcome, and his feelings would not permit of a reply, and General Passenger Agent Fisher thanked the boys in his behalf. An enjoyable evening was passed.

Everybody Waltz.

The following changes have been announced in the passenger department of the Rock Island:

E. W. Thompson having resigned the position of New England passenger agent to accept service with another company, I. L. Loomis, passenger agent middle district, Philadelphia, Pa., is promoted to the position of New England passenger agent, with headquarters at Boston.

W. J. Leahy, traveling passenger agent, New York state, is promoted to the position of passenger agent middle district, with office at Philadelphia, vice I. L. Loomis, transferred.

James Gass is appointed traveling passenger agent for New York state, with office at Buffalo, vice W. J. Leahy, transferred.

J. F. Gardner, for many years past connected with the treasurer's office of the Central Union Telephone company in Chicago, has been elected secretary and treasurer of the Davenport and Rock Island road. Mr. Gardner will go to Davenport November 1 to assume the duties of his new position.

Will Ask for a Raise.

The grievance committee of the Southern Pacific road, composed of members of the Order of Railway Conductors, Order of Trainmen and Association of Switchmen and Firemen, is in session in Houston, Tex., to-day. They propose to petition for an advance of wages.

Passenger Meeting.

A meeting of the passenger department of the Central Traffic association has been called for November 4 by Chairman Donald. The old subject of party rates of mileage tickets and the abrogation of unlimited fares will again come up for consideration.

C., B. & Q. Statement.

Boston, Oct. 30.—The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy September statement, which includes controlled roads, shows gross earnings, $3,715,135; increase, $468,668; net earnings after operating expenses and one-twelfth of annual charge deducted (estimated for 1891), $816,843; increase, $203,870.

Cinders Here and There.

S. B. Knight, general freight agent of the Wabash, is in the city.

Mr. F. D. Wheeler has been appointed commercial agent of the C. C. C. & St. L. at Saginaw, Mich.

The earnings of the Columbus, Shawnee & Hocking for the three weeks in October were $43,894.88.

The earnings of the Norfolk & Western for the third week in October was $211,020, an increase of $20,207.

The Central Traffic association has issued a printed list giving the names and location of the chairmen of the various committees.

Law building is being handsomely decorated and refurnished. This is but one of the many improvements the office has undergone since the new administration.

The Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western management, it is stated, will build a line to connect with the Clover Leaf at Grover Hill, where the roads can interchange traffic.

The officials of the B. and O. are on an inspection tour of the entire system. Aside from the managing officials the party consists of 62 section foremen and four track superintendents.

Frank Janes has been appointed as chairman of the local freight committee for the Central Traffic association. I. M. Osborn is chairman at Fort Wayne, and E. F. Affleck at Sandusky.

During the third week in October the Lake Erie & Western earned $67,668, an increase of $3,812; the Big Four earned $308,759, as compared with $312,487 for the same period last year.

Mr. John D. Cutter, stenographer in the office of General Manager Tucker, of the Erie, has been appointed chief clerk to Superintendent Ira Belnap, of the newly created division. Mr. Cutter will enter upon his new duties next Monday.

C. H. Cory, superintendent of motive power of the C., H. and D., has been offered a similar position by the Chicago and Eastern Illinois. Mr. Cory has been with the C., H. and D. for a good many years, and his worth is appreciated to such an extent that it is not probable that the road will let him go.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

MRS. CUBAN NOT GUILTY.

Ida Cuban, charged with keeping a house of ill-fame, was acquitted by a jury in police court yesterday afternoon. This also necessitates the acquittal of Eliza Smith charged with residing in the house.

TWO CHARGES.

James Stump, who was brought back from Detroit with the horse stolen from Henry Woodward of Adams township, will have a hearing in police court on charges of horse stealing and also of burglary. The hearing was set for today, but the court is very much crowded with business.

CONFIRMED THIEF.

John Kelly, an old man, but a confirmed petty thief, was tried in police court this morning on a charge of stealing a wolf robe from the buggy of Eugene C. Knight. He was convicted and fined $15 and costs and 25 days. Kelly then made an insolent remark to the judge and was fined $5 additional for contempt of court. He also has another sentence hanging over him for petit larceny.

CONCERT ARTISTIQUE.

Those who fail to attend the Seeboeck concert to-night at the Whitney and Currier music hall will miss a rare treat. Mr. and Mrs. Seeboeck are talented artists and never fail to draw fine audiences at their Chicago home. Let Toledo people show their appreciation of a fine program, admirably rendered, by filling the hall to its utmost capacity tonight.

CHILD RUN DOWN.

A six-year old lad named Rymie Gates, son of Joseph Gates, the Adams street druggist, had a narrow escape from being trampled to death yesterday afternoon. He was riding his velocipede on Jefferson street when he was knocked down by a horse hitched to a buggy. For an instant it looked as though the child would surely be killed, but he escaped without injury.

RED MEN'S PARTY.

Tribe No. 257 of Red Men gave a very enjoyable dancing party at Phoenix hall last evening, which was largely attended. Good music was on hand, and everybody had a good time. Much of the success of the affair was due to the arrangement committee, which was composed of Joseph Chaffat, August Wieland, H. B. Wolf, Carl Schrober, Otto Hiltman and William Fischer.

SMALL BUILDING BOOM.

A number of building permits have been issued by the city clerk as follows: W. H. Haskell, $2,000 frame mill on Nebraska avenue; F. Roberts, $1,200 frame dwelling on Lawrence avenue; S. S. Barr, $1,500 frame dwelling on Franklin avenue; Louise Raymond, $900 frame dwelling on Nebraska avenue, $1,400 frame dwelling on Wabash street, $600 frame dwelling on Wabash street; D. Murphy, $200 frame store on Bridge street, East Toledo; P. Oestreich, $600 frame dwelling on Lafayette street.

FORESTER'S DANCE.

A delightful dance and social was held at Eversman's hall last evening by Court Ideal, No. 7775, A. O. F. There was a good attendance, fine music and an elegant supper. The committees in charge were as follows: Arrangements—F. C. Rodd, C. B. Reeves, William C. Coyle, J. H. McInnis, and J. H. Botefuhr; reception—Otto Augsbach, C. W. Parkey, G. P. Roberts, M. B. McFillen, Dr. H. E. Munn, Frank Scofield, Peter Snyder, Charles Newberry, S. G. Southard, and B. O. Manchester; floor—Chas. S. Emery, chief; J. F. Adams, William Butler, J. E. Wood, H. D. Van Fleet, M. Migginson, E. J. Dankart, A. L. Weeb, and George Schwartz.

A WHALE ON AN ANCHOR.

The crew of the whaler Judson are in great glee over an unexpected catch recently made by them in a hurricane, says Harper's Young People. Their vessel was riding at anchor when the storm came up and so terrific was the wind that the anchor dragged. A whale, seeing it, supposed it to be a great sub-marine monster and proceeded to fight against its supposed enemy. At the first attack the whale's tail was severely injured, and the great fish, whirling about, opened its jaws and snapped at the tremendous bit of iron just as a trout snaps at a baited hook and with the same result.

The sharp fluked arm of the anchor caught the whale finally and held him fast. The next morning when the anchor was hauled in the whale was found still struggling to get away, but without avail. The great creature was quickly killed, towed to the side of the vessel, the capstan, run by steam, greatly assisting in the operation, cut up and the oil secured. Altogether, this is said to have been the most marvelous catch of recent years.

The description of a parcel of land in a Waldo county deed includes the following lucid passage: "Eight rods to a hole in the roof of a shed in the shipyard." As the shed was burned 16 years ago the authorities are not exactly clear regarding that bound.
